CLOSE RACE IN ILLINOIS

Both Lowden and Thompson
Factions in Republican
Primary Claim Victory

Complete Count of Votes
Cast Necessary to Determine the Result

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A close race between the Lowden and Thompson candidates today made necessary a complete count of the votes cast in yesterday's primary to determine the result. Supporters of Mayor William Hale Thompson swept Chicago, winning all county and city nominations, but the adherents of Gov. Frank O. Lowden carried the rest of the state by a large majority.

Early reports from Chicago showed an average plurality of better than 40 to the precinct for the Thompson men, but this slumped when returns from nearly half of the 2210 Chicago polling places had been counted. Down state, the Lowden plurality averaged only 10 to the precinct at first, but gradually increased until it averaged 25, when half of the 3261 voting districts outside Chicago had reported.

On the democratic ticket, J. Hamilton Lewis, former senator, won handily over Burratt O'Hara, for the gubernatorial nomination, but the race for the senate candidacy was close between Robert E. Burke and Peter Waller.

Only about half of the registered vote in Chicago was cast, about the same proportion of men slaying away from the polls as women.

Returns from 2375 precincts, including 1456 outside of Chicago, gave Frank L. Smith, Thompson candidate for United States senator, 111,940 and William B. McKinley, Lowden candidate, 137,508. In the 1123 Chicago precincts recorded, Smith had 47,782 and his opponent 44,156. Slightly fewer than a fourth of Smith's Chicago votes were cast by women, while more than a third of McKinley's ballots were marked by women.

Returns from 2155 precincts, including 1596 outside Chicago, for governor, gave Len Small, Thompson candidate for governor, 156,172 and Lieut. Gov. Oglesby, Lowden candidate, 145,596. In the 1163 Chicago precincts recorded, Smith had 52,202 votes and Oglesby 49,866.

Mayor Thompson issued statements that the election would give his candidates from $5,000 to 100,000 plurality, while Lieut. Gov. Oglesby asserted that he would carry the state outside the metropolis by 150,000.

Among the congressional contestants was Joseph G. Cannon of Danville. He was in the rear on early returns, but finally forged to the front for a victory.

Mayor Thompson won possible control of the election machinery in Cook county by nominating his candidate for county judge.

In the race for congressman-at-large, William E. Mason, incumbent, supported by Thompson, had a large lead.

Winner in Doubt

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 16.—With both leading candidates for the republican nomination for United States senator claiming a victory, it appeared probable today that an official count might be necessary to establish the result. Returns compiled by the Rocky Mountain News from 1120 precincts of the 1521 in the state, gave Karl C. Schuler of Denver, the lead of 2373 over Samuel D. Nicholson of Leadville. Most of the missing precincts are in outlying districts considered favorable to Nicholson.

SHOPLIFTERS IN COURT

One Woman Gets Direct
Sentence and Another is Fined $65

Mae S. Rogers, found guilty of the larceny of goods valued approximately at $254.97 from eight different stores in this city in police court this morning before Judge Pickman, was given an aggregate sentence of two months in jail, seven days on each of seven of the complaints and 12 days on the other. Through counsel for defense she appealed the decision, and was ordered to furnish $100 bonds for her appearance for trial in superior court. Another woman, a Mrs. Hilliard, found guilty of the larceny of four pairs of silk stockings from two stores was ordered to pay a fine of $65.

In making a search of the Hilliard house the police found no goods, but their inspection of the Rogers home revealed, they said, a "storehouse of goods," including silverware, hats and dresses not mentioned in the complaints because they could not be identified by storekeepers. The list of goods taken by the Rogers woman included three fur neckpieces, one thermos bottle, 24 spoons, one sweat-shirt, six dresses, two shirtwaists, four pairs of shoes from the Chalfoux company, one bag and one box of incense from the G. C. Prince company; five camisoles, five chemises, one hooded robe, one petticoat from Mak-er and McCurdy; three pairs of gloves, 11 yards of cloth from the A. G. Polard company; one dress, one skirt, and one pair of gloves from the Albin C. Taylor company.

The larceny of four pairs of stockings, two from Mak-er and McCurdy's and two from the Bon Marche, was continued to Page Twelve

FINED FOR ASSAULT

But Switch Operator Said it
Was Worth It

In police court today Frederick Hurst, switch operator at the West Chelmsford railroad station of the Boston & Maine, was charged with assault and battery upon Arthur G. Tisdale, also an operator of the same station and upon a finding of guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $12. In answering the court as to whether he should enter an appeal in the decision the defendant said: "No, I think not, it's worth it." Then turning to the complainant he said: "It's worth it, Tisdale."

The complainant alleged that Hurst struck him in the mouth following some words in the station shortly after noon-time on Aug. 24, while the defendant admitted that he shook Tisdale, but did not, to his knowledge, strike him. A Mr. Cole, a station hand, testified that Tisdale's lip was swollen on the afternoon of the quarrel in question and upon this evidence the court judged the defendant guilty. Tisdale is the first operator at the station and Hurst is second operator.

Tisdale, according to Hurst, has been particularly surly about the removal of certain papers from the shanty, on the day in question told him to "get those papers out of there." Becoming angry, Hurst approached him and shook him. Hurst was not represented by counsel, but to the great interest of the spectators in the court room acted the part of a lawyer, asking so many questions that he had to be warned by the court.

MACSWINEY WAS MUCH WEAKER TODAY

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Terence Mac-Sweeney, lord mayor of Cork, was much weaker today, after a bad night, according to the report to the home office from the physicians at Belknox prison. They said he had less rest than for several nights previously. This was the 35th day of his hunger strike.

"The lord mayor," said the morning bulletin issued by the Irish Self-determination League, "passed a very bad night indeed, and was very weak and worn out this morning."

Taxpayers Dissatisfied With

Sale of Firehouse

Commissioner Salmon of the fire and water works department of the city government stated this morning that it was his intention to introduce at the meeting of the municipal council next Tuesday an order calling for the opening of negotiations for the purchase by the city of land at the corner of Pine and Stevens streets in the Highlands district as a site for a new fire station.

If this order is passed by the council, and from expressions of opinion by members of the council there is reason to believe that it will meet with little active opposition, the first step will be taken toward the laying of the people of the Highlands district. Since three residences were destroyed last winter in the section, due to its proximity to the city, it is commonly alleged, to faulty fire protection. Highlands people have spent a considerable portion of their time denouncing the city government for not providing more fire apparatus in the district.

The Next Step

If Commissioner Salmon's order is passed at the next session of the council, the next step will be an effort to purchase the property at a valuation to be agreed upon in conference with the owners. If it is found to be impossible to reach an agreement, the matter will probably be brought before the municipal council in the shape of an order authorizing the

WALKING TOWARD LAKE

Pres. Deschanel of France
Found By Valet—Expected to Resign Today

PARIS, Sept. 16.—President Deschanel's decision to resign was reached upon the advice of his physician, according to the Echo de Paris, and he has seemed to be much relieved over the prospect of a release from the burdens of public life.

"The latest chapter in the life of M. Deschanel," says the newspaper, "reads like an act from a Shakespearean drama. A few mornings ago he was found walking toward a lake in the park where his valet was fishing and it seemed that he was drawn toward the water by some mysterious force. He was led back to his apartment and physicians were hastily summoned, but they found that no serious symptoms had made their appearance."

Premier Millerand, after consulting several members of the cabinet today and taking lunch at Versailles, started in a motor car for Rambouillet to see President Deschanel.

A report that this president's letter of resignation had already been written lacked confirmation, but it was expected that the resignation would be offered verbally to the premier at today's interview and in written form for presentation to parliament.

General opinion is that a new president will be elected before the end of next week.

Terrific Blast in the Financial District Leaves Death and Destruction In Its Wake

Troops, Police and Doctors Rush to Scene of Disaster—Bodies of Human Beings and Horses Scattered Over Streets—Front of Morgan Building Demolished—Sub-Treasury Damaged—Other Buildings Wrecked—Death List Grows as Reports Come In

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A terrific explosion which rocked all of lower Manhattan, occurred at noon today, outside the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., on Wall Street. Many persons were killed and injured.

Young Morgan Injured

Junius Spencer Morgan, son of J. P. Morgan, a member of the firm, was badly cut by flying glass. Officials of the company denied first reports that a bomb had exploded in the Morgan building.

The list of casualties, mounted as excited word passed from mouth to mouth, but an accurate count was impossible in the intense confusion that swept the financial district.

Spectators Held by Police

It was equally impossible half an hour after the explosion occurred to determine either its exact nature or location, for spectators were held by the police.

It was reported, however, that shortly before noon an automobile with two men drove up in front of the Morgan offices and that when Morgan detectives approached the machine one man alighted and either accidentally or purposely dropped what appeared to be a bomb.

Report Bomb Planted

Occupants of a skyscraper looking down on Wall Street gave another version of the automobile story. They declared they had seen the car drive up and the men leave it. These spectators advanced the theory that the bomb—if it was a bomb—had been timed.

This version differed from the first, as regards the two passengers and their chauffeurs. The first story had it that they were among the dead of injured.

Never in its history has lower Manhattan witnessed such excitement as prevailed today. Trading on both the stock and curb exchanges were ordered suspended for the day a few minutes after the explosion occurred and from then on lower New York forgot all its business matters in attending to the needs of the injured, fire apparatus and ambulances dashed through the narrow, crooked streets of the financial district, on which lay a covering of shattered glass and the broken remains of men and horses.

Bodies of Three Girls

Among the bodies were those of three girls, terribly mutilated. A police cordon was hastily thrown around the entire financial district when thousands, hearing the explosion, flocked to the tip of Manhattan Island.

The United States sub-treasury, immediately opposite the scene of the explosion, was placed under heavy police guard to protect the millions of dollars in gold, silver and paper money lodged in the granite structure.

14 Bodies on Sidewalk

The first efforts of the police were directed toward saving the injured and removing the dead. At 12:40 14 bodies were seen lying on the sidewalk and 10 others were reported to have been taken away by volunteer workers.

An emergency call was sent to Governor's Island from which a heavy detachment was sent to New York to guard the sub-treasury and aid the police.

More Than Score Dead

The reported casualty list at 12:50 was more than a score dead and about 75 injured.

Heads of the fire department on reaching the scene directed their efforts toward ascertaining the cause and location of the explosion. The latter was difficult because of the shattered appearance of buildings near the Morgan office, but the authorities were inclined to abandon their theory in the Morgan building and the stock exchange. Consensus of opinion at 12:45 was that the blowup had occurred in the street.

One fire marshal expressed the opinion that the explosion had been of dynamite. Coupled with this theory was the automobile which figured in other versions of the disaster. This automobile was reported to have collided with a truck loaded with dynamite.

Hundreds Thrown to Sidewalk

Many of the injured were girls working in office buildings. Hundreds of persons were thrown to the sidewalk with the force of the explosion, dozens of trucks and automobiles were pressed into service to carry away the wounded.

Police reserves hastily assembled, found difficulty in coping with the crowd of many thousands who tried to press themselves into Wall Street, that canyon in which automobiles can hardly pass each other with ease. Telephone service was shut off from many public booths in the vicinity, and all banking offices were placed under extraordinary heavy guard.

A wrecked automobile bearing the New Jersey license number 24246 was found near the Morgan building, and the police tried to establish whether this was the machine which had figured so prominently in versions of the disaster.

Underneath the wrecked automobile was found a New Jersey chauffeur's license made out in the name of J. P. Morgan.

T.N.T. Truck in Wreck

An hour after the explosion occurred, the police were inclined to the theory that it had been caused by a collision of a T.N.T. truck and an automobile on Wall street between the Morgan office and the sub-treasury building.

They pointed to the fact that a demolished truck was found at this point near the wrecked automobile. The authorities switched their theory from dynamite to T.N.T. because of the fact that there appeared no great hole in the pavement, such as would have been blasted by the downward force of dynamite.

So far as can be learned, no prominent financiers or members of the stock exchange were injured in the explosion. Thomas W. Lamont and Henry P. Davison, members of the firm, were in the Morgan offices at the time but were not hurt.

Seventeen victims of the explosion were taken out of the side door of the Morgan banking house at 12:35.

U. S. Troops Arrive

United States regulars from Governor's Island arrived on the scene at 12:50 for guard duty.

At 1:05 doubt was cast on the accident theory when members of the bomb squad hastened to the scene expressed the opinion that a bomb had caused the explosion. The cause of metal picked up on the street were being examined on the theory that they may have been bits of the infernal machine.

Police summoned all ambulances from 34th street south and all available police reserves were mobilized. The financial district after the explosion presented a scene of greatest demolition.

In addition to the bodies of human beings and horses scattered over the pavement, great blots of blood appeared on the office buildings. Almost every pane of glass in the vicinity was shattered and besides a mantle of broken crystal, the streets were covered with fragments of brick and stone blasted from the base walls of the skyscrapers. Several persons were hurt in these office buildings when missiles were hurled through windows.

The front of the Morgan building was demolished and the sub-treasury also was badly damaged. With the arrival of soldiers and police, 50 street cleaners were put to work sweeping up the streets to make possible easier passage of ambulances.

At 1:15 p. m., the police estimated the number of injured at 200.

CLEMENCEAU DECLINES

Would Prefer Hunting Tigers in India to Becoming President of France

PARIS, Sept. 15.—A French newspaper correspondent tonight called up former Premier Clemenceau and asked "The Tiger" whether he would permit his name to be used as a candidate for the presidency.

"I was too old to be elected last January," replied M. Clemenceau, "and I feel too young to accept now, in case I was chosen. I am going to India's jungles to hunt tigers, which is much less dangerous than French politics."

FERDIE HARKINS LOOKS FOR BIG POLO YEAR

Ferdie Harkins, who will manage the Hartford club in the American League polo league this season, was in Lowell yesterday, and in discussing the outlook for the 1920-1921 season which opens on Saturday night said that he looked for a very successful year.

He expects Hartford and its support, the two new cities added to the circuit to go big. He played polo down in the States eight or nine years ago and he said that the fans there are very enthusiastic over the game. He felt that some of the cities in the league last season may not prove as good as formerly, but added that in the event of any falling down, he was confident that new homes could be found in Connecticut cities.

He said that several of the players, who were in the league the past few seasons may not be back in uniform this season. A couple of them have landed good jobs and will have to leave them. Fred Williams, Ted Lewis and a couple of others have announced that they will not "come back," but Ferdie felt that they may get the fever when the bell rings.

Paul Gardner also is out of the game, being engaged in business in New Bedford. Frank Hardy of Salem has a very lucrative position, but he has agreed to play if he succeeds in getting a leave of absence.

Harkins is down to weight and looks to be in perfect condition. He regrets leaving Lowell, but feels that it's all in the game, and will work now just as hard as he did for us for three consecutive years.

Harkins says he looks to see Davies, the young Lowell rush, to be one of the stars of the league this season. He said that with two such capable and experienced men as Doherty and Hart with him the "Kid" is bound to go big. Harkins also had a word of praise for Victor, the new star, who is in splendid shape and the fans should see a wonderful battle. Both boys are exceptionally clever and as the winner will virtually become the lightweight champion, it will be a bout worth coming miles to see.

The program will start at 2:30 o'clock with a rounder between Buddy Johnson and Kid O'Brien. There will be two eight rounders, Mike Castle of Lawrence will meet Jack O'Leary of Boston and Mike O'Brien and Barney Burke, two local boys will swap blows for eight frames.

These bouts will be conducted under the rules of the state boxing commission and there will not be the slightest hitch.

ALL IN READINESS FOR LAWRENCE BOUT

LAWRENCE, Sept. 16.—Everything is in readiness for the Lawrence bout between Frankie Callahan and Cuddy "Brothers" arena and if the advance sale of tickets is any criterion, the biggest crowd ever known to have witnessed a prize fight in this section of the country will attend.

Frankie Callahan was in the ring last night and in fact everywhere have been anxious to see them pitted against each other. Frankie is in the ring in splendid shape and the fans should see a wonderful battle. Both boys are exceptionally clever and as the winner will virtually become the lightweight champion, it will be a bout worth coming miles to see.

The program will start at 2:30 o'clock with a rounder between Buddy Johnson and Kid O'Brien. There will be two eight rounders, Mike Castle of Lawrence will meet Jack O'Leary of Boston and Mike O'Brien and Barney Burke, two local boys will swap blows for eight frames.

LIMIT INTRODUCING BOXERS

Hard Blow to "Rowdy" Ben Kearney et al.—Billy Gardner Gets Referee's License—Judges Must Name Winner

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The boxing commissioners stated yesterday that, in order to prevent delays at boxing meetings, they have made a rule that no boxer will be allowed to be introduced at any show except those who are to box in the main bout at the club's next show; also that no club will be allowed to announce the program of another club's show. Another rule is that no fighter will be allowed to box twice within 24 hours, thus preventing a boxer from appearing at one club two nights in succession.

Union Square A.C. of Somerville was granted a license. The following were granted licenses to be referees: Jimmy Walsh, Benny O'Sullivan, Frankie Mack, Tom Sullivan of Lawrence, and Billy Gardner, judges: Tom Duffy, Ezra Marston, J. Shaughnessy, John Martin, C. Mooney, Fred Lincoln; timers: J. Riley, A. Burns and Gene Dugan.

There was a considerable discussion yesterday among the fans in regard to the commissioners having the two judges and the referee write their decisions on paper after each bout. The decision of the three will be the decision. The commissioners have ruled that the referee's decision would be the one to stand.

The commissioners explained that they have instructed the judges and referees to name a winner, and if they do not, the one that writes draw will be given a rest.

YANKS AND DODGERS SETTING FAST PACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Three of the six contenders for the pennants in the National and American leagues were idle yesterday because of an open date in their schedules. The New York Yankees, who are leading the American league race but Cleveland gained a few points by defeating the Athletics. The Chicago White Sox did not play and the victory of the Indians widened a little the gap between second and third places. The Yankees are leading the Indians by three percentage points, or by one game as the teams stand in games won and lost. The Chicago White Sox are 17 points or two and one-half games behind the Yankees.

By winning the final game of the series between the Chicago Cubs and the Brooklyn club kept its lead in the National league of five full games over Cincinnati, which won from Philadelphia. The New York Giants did not play and are in third place, half a game behind Cincinnati.

Today the first of all the important series involving the National league pennant will be opened between Brooklyn and Cincinnati at Brooklyn. While the Superbas enjoy a comfortable lead they still have five games to play with the Giants in addition to three games with Cincinnati today, Friday and Saturday.

The New York Yankees also will open a series today at Chicago which will have vital bearing upon the American league pennant race. It will be necessary for the Yankees to win all three games of the series in order to retain first place unless the Cleveland club drops a game while the Yankees and White Sox are fighting it out.

WILL PLAY SERIES OF THREE GAMES

Manager Bird of the Gillespie, city champion baseball team has accepted the challenge of the local K. of C. team to play a series of three games, the first to be played Saturday afternoon at Spalding park. According to agreement, Nixie Coughlin will umpire. The gate receipts of the games will be divided on a 50-50 basis, the larger share going to the Gillespies.

Because the last game which these two teams played in the regular league brought a 1 to 0 victory for the Knights which was later reversed by a ruling of the league to victory for the Gillespies, this series will be played but with no bearing upon the standing of the teams in the league. The 1 to 0 victory was changed to the Gillespies because the Knights had used three out-of-town players in the game.

BENEFIT BALL GAME

The Gillespie Champions and the American Legion team will meet on South Common this evening.

The American Legion team and the Gillespie outfit will clash on the South Common this evening at 8 o'clock in a common game for "Bucky" Freeman, a former player for the South Ends, now confined in a hospital, disabled by injuries received in the war. The regular Gillespie lineup will be used and the Legion will play the following: Jenkins, cf; Lynch, lf; Duffy, 2b; Cawley, 3b; Brown, ss; Devin, p; Dolan and Harrington as substitute pitchers and Twicken as sub-fielder will be on the bench for the legion.

DODGERS AND REDS CLASH

NEW YORK, September 16.—Brooklyn and Cincinnati clashed today in the first of three games that will have an important bearing on the outcome of the pennant race in the National league. Brooklyn, now leading the league by a comfortable margin, has 13 more games to play. If it breaks even in these contests it will finish the season with 50 victories and 31 defeats. Cincinnati, to nose out Brooklyn, would have to capture 15 of its 19 games, while the Giants would have to win 15 out of 17.

YANKS VS. WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A three-game series that may play a big part in deciding the American league pennant winner opened here today when the White Sox met the Yankees. In addition, Babe Ruth was after his 50th circuit drive.

The White Sox entered today's contest with a record of only eight games out of the last 19 played. Dick Kerr, left hander, was slated to pitch against Jack Quinn.

A hand of 50 pieces from St. Mary's Industrial school, Baltimore, where Ruth spent several years, was at the game.

And well it may be; for here every woman may discover that for which every woman is seeking—a really becoming hat; a hat that will emphasize one's best points; a hat that will add radiance to youth, and bestow the illusion of youth even where the actuality no longer exists.

Soft rich fabrics—duvetyne and velvet chief among them; the equally soft, rich tones, startled into vividness here and there with a dash of brilliant coloring.

In the display are soft draped effects in close fitting turbans—chic little affairs that may be used on almost any occasion. Then there are the handsome medium and large hats which have slightly rolled or flared brims.

Irregular lines are greatly in evidence—points and rims cut short or accentuated in some places. Then there may be a high turn on the side with a droop on the other. This season the trimmings on nearly all of the hats are used in such a way to give the large effect bead pins, jet ornaments, ostrich, fancies, etc.

HOBOS HELPED WIN WAR

Gov. Cox Offered Vagrants Choice of Working or Going to Jail—and Work

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 14.—Making constructive patriots out of vagrants was one of the war achievements of Ohio, already great in achievements. Before the slogan "Work or Fight" had become a nationwide command, Ohio had applied the stern alternative in a slightly different phraseology. "Work or go to jail—and work anyhow," was her ultimatum.

Gov. Governor Cox in his second term dug up from the dust of oblivion a law which made vagrancy not only a crime but an actual felony is told in his record as a war and reconstruction governor, set forth in the democratic campaign textbook just issued from national headquarters, Grand Central Palace, New York City.

Governor Cox from the beginning had realized that production in all essential activities of the war, discovering the almost forgotten statute, he issued a proclamation calling for the arrest of vagrants everywhere, with the alternative of a parole on condition that they went to work immediately, or imprisonment at labor on workhouse farms or the state penitentiary farms and factories. Most of the idlers chose to avoid imprisonment by finding jobs and going to work.

Cox as a War Governor

The United States entered the war with Germany in the fourth month of Governor Cox's second term, and he set about to make Ohio responsive to every call of the nation for men, food and commodities. As a farmer he knew the importance of keeping the fields mowed for a crop production that should be adequate to the needs of the nation and the allies, and at his suggestion thousands of high school and college students received credits for completing the year's school work by engaging in farming or war industries.

To meet the situation of reduced man power on the farm caused by the draft, Governor Cox issued a "farm tractor" proclamation, urging all farmers, if necessary to get full acreage under cultivation, to purchase tractors. A tractor school at Ohio State university afforded to men, women and boys an opportunity to learn operation of tractors, the banks everywhere extended credit and thousands of tractors were purchased.

The state's five-year employment exchanges were increased to 36 with farm labor specialists at each of them. When the call came for thousands of cautionment and ship-builders Ohio's quota was always furnished by these exchanges overnight. This service was so well organized that the federal government adopted the Ohio plan. Most of the war activities of the state were handled through a defense council of 50 members, the governor of Governor Cox's "cabinet," whose personnel included representatives of business, labor, agriculture and all the social agencies.

Within three weeks after the declaration of war with Germany the Ohio National Guard had been recruited to a strength of 27,000 officers and men and later went over the top as the Thirty-seventh Division. The Guard also furnished one regiment to the Rainbow Division. In addition to these troops, more than 200,000 Ohioans went into active service under the draft. Prior to the adoption of the selective service act the state was organized by counties through agencies of common pleas judges, so that when the draft came non-partisan boards were promptly set up in every community and the law was administered fairly and without taint of scandal.

Ready For Reconstruction

The war ended soon after Governor Cox's third election and he attacked the problems of reconstruction with the same energy and thoroughness that he had applied to the war activities of the state. "Ohio is ready now," was the instant reply sent by him to the question of President Wilson in the fall of 1918 as to how soon the state could be prepared to receive and care for her wounded boys who needed to be returned home for rehabilitation. One of the large state institutions was made ready for this emergency.

Other reconstruction problems he handled in the direct and business-like manner which has characterized his public career. He urged upon mayors to begin public improvements on the widest scale possible to insure employment for returning soldiers, and the state set the example by prosecuting a road building program on the greatest scale in its history.

To combat the menace of food profiteering Governor Cox called a meeting of all Ohio prosecuting attorneys and urged them to call special grand juries and to prosecute profiteers to the full extent of the law. "Indictments for conspiracies to regulate or increase food prices ensued in all the larger cities; the price of bread was lowered in Columbus when the leaders of the bakers' combine in that city had been indicted and had pleaded guilty; scores of prosecutions were brought against violators of the cold

Anti-Bolshevik Revolution Grows

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 13.—The anti-Bolshevik revolution in the Baku region, in the Caucasus, is reported to be gaining strength. The Russians, who recently admitted the evacuation of Baku, are still in retreat. The proposed Greek offensive against the Turkish nationalists has been held up, in order that the sultan's government may seek a compromise with the nationalists.

storage law passed during the governor's former term, and tons of meat thereby were released at lower prices.

Handling of Industrial Unrest

When the wave of industrial unrest that succeeded the armistice swept over the country Ohio was not immune. But even in that crisis the record of six years, during which no recourse to the militia was ever found necessary, was preserved. When the steel strike involved the great steel mills of eastern and northwestern Ohio Gov. Cox issued a proclamation holding the mayors to strict accountability for the preservation of the peace. That he meant it he showed in the only instance in which it was necessary for him to act, when he removed the mayor of Canton, a democrat, for failure to preserve the peace. Under the deposed official's successor the law was successfully enforced.

The coal strike last November threatened to make industry and homes fuelless and Governor Cox obtained from Ohio operators and miners an agreement to abide by a solution he would offer. Before each side had had time in which to consider the proposal he submitted the strike had been settled nation-wide. But all Ohio believes that it was the action of their governor that forced the issue and brought on the national settlement.

DENOUNCES TREATMENT OF NEGROES BY BRITISH

LONDON, Sept. 15.—An indictment of British treatment of negroes in British East Africa is made by Sir H. H. Johnston, writing in The Observer. "Many of the assertions made before the negro conference in New York," he says, "were wild and windy, but it behooves our colonial office to see plain justice done to the 4,000,000 of black and brown people in this 'protectorate'." Numerous instances of bullying, flogging and torture are cited by the writer.

"The natives," he says, "are slowly coalescing. Bantu with Nilote, Mohammedan with Christian and Pagan, Somali and Galla with hitherto despised negro in their common hatred of the invader, white man, owing to the exceptional cruelties which have stained the white man's record during this period of 15 years. These are not cruelties of soldiers or policemen, of government servants of any kind, but of individual settlers, British or Boer in origin.

"Not only have murders, light-hearted, of natives taken place all too frequently, not only have revolting cruelties been committed, but, when the white delinquents are brought up for trial white juries acquit them or white judges inflict trivial penalties, or rebellious public opinion forces a governor to revise a sentence. I doubt if capital punishment for murder has ever been imposed on a white man in East Africa.

"Again, in the great war, thousands and thousands of native porters were compulsorily enrolled by our government or by the military authorities in the unhappily-styled 'protectorate,' and the arrangements for their commissariat, their medical treatment, their lodging and clothing have been miserably inadequate, with the result that some 23,000 to 25,000 of them (it was reported) died during the pursuit of the German forces.

"The survivors have retained tongues and the power of speaking; some, even, had been mission educated and when 'Dora' (defense of the health act) took her hand off the mail service, they have shamelessly told the world outside Africa something of their preventable sufferings and even of singularly callous and sometimes cruel treatment at the hands of the military authorities.

"Now the culminating incident is this. Some two months ago there occurred at Ndaba, in British East Africa, cases of flogging and torture so severe that according to a medical officer's report in some cases 'the flogged natives died from the torture and flogging.' These crimes seemingly were committed on a European's plantation. The Europeans in what is now termed a 'colony' apparently take the law into their own hands and administer punishment as they please."

STYLE SHOW WEEK MARRIAGE FAILS

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—Married less than six months ago before a crowd of more than 5000 spectators, and supplied with wedding gifts enough to furnish an apartment, Mrs. Florrie Jones Henry, of this city, is now suing for divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry were married during "Style Show week" here in March last, in a window of the city's largest department store. The wedding presents included the bride's trousseau complete, a bedroom suite, a complete set of furnishings for the kitchen and groceries enough to last the couple for a month. The donations were made by local firms.

In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Henry says her husband spends too much of his time away from home at night.

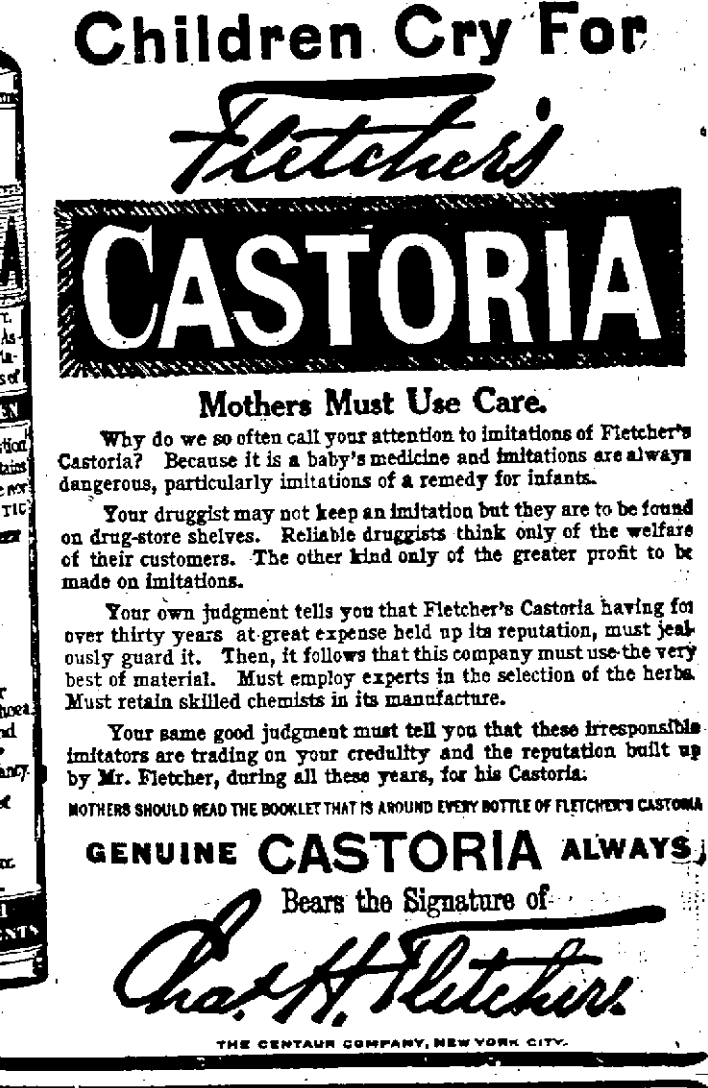

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Why do we so often call your attention to imitations of Fletcher's Castoria? Because it is a baby's medicine and imitations are always dangerous, particularly imitations of a remedy for infants.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

ARMY FLIER KILLED AT NORTHELD

NORTHELD, Sept. 16.—Lieutenant Haven Spencer of East Northfield, an army flier, stationed at Minot, N. D., was killed and Herman McMillan of Mr. Hermon, a former navy aviator, narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when Spencer's plane in which they were flying crashed nose first to the ground while attempting to land in a small field here.

The field is a small one and Lieut. Spencer evidently misjudged the distance as he overshot the field and hit the top of a tree. The plane flipped over and then crashed to the ground, landing on the ground clear of the scratches. Spencer was crushed in the mass of wreckage. His skull was fractured and death was almost instantaneous.

Lieutenant Spencer was the son of Mrs. Mary Spencer of East Northfield, and had flown from Minot to pay her a visit.

SCHOOL AND STUDY

Back at school are the boys and the girls who romped carefree during the past two months of vacation. They have had an enjoyable time, no doubt indulging in outdoor sports, visits to the beaches and mountains; and last but not least, attendance at the "movies."

Yes, the movies hold a high place in the amusement of the average boy and girl. The jokes are enjoyed and the stories followed with absorbing interest. If the teacher in the classroom could hold the attention of her pupils half as firmly as do the movies, she would rejoice that their success was assured.

But it is a fact not generally known, that it is now very much more difficult to hold the attention of children under instruction than it was before the advent of the moving pictures. Most of the children in the city see a picture show once a week and sometimes oftener. In addition to this, they read with avidity the "funnies" of the Sunday papers, so that the average pupil attending school today can hardly be restrained from imitating the antics of the movie actors or quoting the jokes in the colored supplements, even when they are supposed to be most earnestly engaged in study.

If the teachers could use moving pictures to illustrate the various subjects of instruction, they would find it much easier to hold the close attention of their classes. Under present conditions, owing to the greater tendency to levity and inattention, it is positively more difficult than ever to induce the pupils to put forth any sustained effort in their studies. Their work is done by snatches with a consequent lack of thoroughness that causes what they do learn to evaporate, so to speak, in a very short time.

Under such conditions, it is most difficult to have any memory work done well. Indeed the work of committing certain lessons to memory seems to be a lost art as things go nowadays in the elementary schools.

Originally this was largely due to the fact that the school books, supplied by the city, were not to be taken home by the pupils. Eventually it became a fixed custom that grammar school pupils studied nothing at home with the exception of a few problems given in the upper grades. Herein lies an educational waste, a loss of opportunity, and the formation of a habit of idleness in periods that might be devoted to useful study without any danger either to body or mind.

When the high school studies come, the student who takes the leading courses will have to spend much time in home study in order to keep up. Had he previously formed the habit, he would find his work in this period much easier.

Under present conditions, the teaching work is harder than formerly and it is becoming more difficult as time advances, although neither parents nor school boards may realize the fact. The pupils' mind is so much absorbed in outside diversions that hard study becomes repulsive. Mental relaxation is useful and even necessary in case of the hard working student, but the chief difficulty teachers experience is in getting pupils to settle down to real, earnest study so as to be entirely free from outward distractions which prevent thoroughness of work and retard progress.

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY

Mayor Thompson, in his remarks before the charter commission Tuesday evening, called attention to a fact that deserves to be kept ever prominently in mind, namely that the city of Lowell is a big corporation, with annual expenditures at the present time of approximately $7,000,000, and that if it is to be successfully managed, it must be along lines that have worked out well in big business enterprises. He also emphasized another matter of importance, when he called attention to the desirability of making it easier for voters to fix responsibility when things go awry in the city government.

In the past we have been chary about clothing individual officials with too much power. We have gone on the principle, seemingly, that we were quite likely to get weak or inefficient men in office and that we must surround them with such a system of checks and balances as would minimize their possibilities for doing mischief. As a consequence, the individual voter, with his conscience and his lead pencil in the polling booth, sincerely desirous of remedying conditions that he believes were not what they should be, has found it difficult, if not impossible, to apportion blame where it belonged.

If the charter commission succeeds in devising a system that will minimize the present day evils attendant upon passing the buck by municipal officials, it will deserve well of the community. Mayor Thompson's other suggestions that greatly enlarged powers be lodged in the hands of the mayor and the school committee set up as a separate entity, with power to levy taxes and otherwise have supreme control over its affairs, are worthy of serious consideration. It may be questioned, though, whether the time has yet come for the more restricted tenure of office for department heads, and a return to the old spoils system.

SAVE POLAND

If the League of Nations is in active operation, it should make some effort to stop the warfare between Poland and Lithuania. Here are two new states set up after the war, and they have been fighting practically ever since their boundaries were laid down. Lithuania is under control of the Bolshevik leaders of Russia and Poland is fighting both by turns. She cannot continue this very long. Surely the League of Nations with its new court of justice can do something to get Poland out of her difficulties.

The new plan of hand signals for motorists devised by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, if properly used, will help to lessen the number of accidents on the highways. At the present time there is no regularity or uniformity in such signals. The new plan reduces them to a code that is simple and easily remembered. There are five signs for each side, the left for an auto having the drive on the left side and the others for those having the drive on the right. These signals should be perfected and all chauffeurs should be obliged to use them on the road. At the present time a great many accidents occur either because no signals are given or because the signals are so confusing as to be misunderstood.

INCITING CIVIL WAR

It has been announced that the British cabinet, which means Sir Edward Carson, has decided to put arms in the hands of "well disposed persons" in Ireland and give them full power to maintain order. The well disposed under consideration are the members of Carson's army. This is intended as a step to force the people into civil war. The government doesn't care to have the troops mow the people down. It prefers to arm the loyalists and give them authority to shoot as many of the others as they please. This is but an application of England's age-long policy of "divide and conquer."

Some London journals stand aghast at the fact that one of their number, perhaps the most radical, has been found to be receiving Bolshevik gold in lieu of putting out their propaganda. These journals should not affect so much surprise, as they have openly advocated the spread of paid propaganda work in the United States and at the present time, the gold is being used to buy newspapers and subsidize news syndicates so as to mold American opinion in favor of England.

The school committee spends nearly a third of all the money raised by taxation. This fact emphasizes the importance that serious consideration shall be given to Mayor Thompson's suggestion that the committee shall be entirely divorced from the municipal council and set up in housekeeping for itself.

It is reported that in the past a large percentage of street railway transfer tickets have been issued to persons with a mania for getting something for nothing, who afterwards throw them away. That item will be eliminated from the expense account of the Eastern Massachusetts company in the future.

It used to be the custom to facilitate the bridegroom's luck by giving him a charming ride, but the newspapers of Paris have set a new fashion in complimenting Marshal Pétain on his strategy in outwitting the reporters and photographers who had hoped to be present at his wedding.

Italian workmen, who have taken over the operation of two large Milan factories, are reported to be working without any prospect of being paid. That ought to be an object lesson to anyone anywhere who is inclined to be awayed by "Red" arguments.

If the suggestion of Miss Mary MacSwiney, that the American friends of the Irish republic apply economic pressure to England, should be carried out, we might confidently expect in the very near future to see John Bull with tears streaming down his cheeks pleading that he will be good hereafter.

The nomination of Thomas E. Watson of Georgia for United States senator is an indication of a trend away from democratic principles, not towards republicanism, but rather towards a brand of populism that borders on Bolshevism. It will make a good running mate for Senator La Follette.

There is one man in Lowell that we ought to bustle around and take up a collection and buy a halo for. He is Edmund Welch, who told the members of the charter commission that he hadn't made a mistake during his career as superintendent of police.

Although the lieutenant governor of Massachusetts is the only official in the United States legally entitled to be addressed as "your honor," no one is likely to object to our continuing to refer to our mayors and judges in the old-fashioned way.

A correspondent asks for advice regarding an effective way of dealing with thieves who steal fruit and garden products. We have heard of a nimble and reasonably ferocious bulldog being used to advantage.

If the present spell of dreary weather continues very much longer it may be worth while to get out a "Extra" to announce the important news that the sun has begun to shine again—when that happy time arrives.

If the attendance of spectators at the charter commission hearings goes on increasing in geometrical progression, it may be necessary to hang the sign "Standing Room Only" on the outer gate of the city hall.

London Punch used to print a series of cartoons of an infant terrible who asked troublesome questions. Perhaps Charter Commissioner O'Donnell might serve as a model for the young person if the series is still running.

It is about time that the Irish friends of Mayor MacSwiney of Cork would cease appealing to President Wilson or Secretary Colby for intercession. They should know by this time that Washington will not interfere.

We refuse to vouch for its truth, but we have heard the story that Highland people have stopped eating mice pie to put an end to dreaming about fire stations.

With the returns all in from Maine and Vermont, what is the man who predicted that women would not vote if they had a chance, got to say for himself?

Some people will be curious enough to wish to know whether the population of Reno, Nev., announced as being 12,015, was counted while the divorce court was in session or otherwise.

For all they did, all they dared and all they suffered, remember the world war veterans' carnival tonight and tomorrow night.

SEEN AND HEARD

Advice for the little ones: Do your Christmas hating early.

When it comes to chairmanship, hats off to the chairman of the charter commission.

Those howls you hear are from angry householders who bought sugar at 30 cents to a pound it.

An automatic chess player has been invented; most people are willing to let a machine play that game.

Lowell people wishing to familiarize themselves with the charter and modus operandi of city government in general should attend those charter commission hearings. They are educational, to say the least.

Had No Press Agent

"Shakespeare had no scenery worth mentioning," "And he had no press agent, either," said Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Otherwise there would have been no lingering doubt as to who wrote his plays."—Washington Star.

Had Family Prize

The Judge—So you claim you robbed that delicatessen store because you were starving? Why didn't you take something to eat instead of stealing all the cash out of the register? The Accused—Cause I'm a proud man Judge, an' make it a rule to pay for everything I eat.—London Elightly.

Fussy Patient

He was a very particular young man. Details, however minute, never escaped him. Nevertheless, despite all his cure, he became "run-down," not through overwork, but from overfulness. "That tired feeling," he told him in its clutches, and he had to consult a physician. After an examination, the doctor acquainted him with his malady. "It's a very prevalent illness nowadays," said he. "What you need is a tonic in the shape of sea air." "Humm! Is that so? Well, before we go on any further, would you kindly oblige me by showing me the actual shape of sea air?"—From London Tit-Bits.

Satisfying Work

In a certain army camp there was perpetual trouble with the men detailed to look after the horses. Many of them did not like the work and did things wrong to get out of it, and some of them were badly missed elsewhere. There was constant change and no one seemed to be satisfied. Finally the psychologist was consulted, and he picked for the work a squad of the least intelligent men in the camp. The experiment worked; for these men loved the horses and liked the routine of looking after them under supervision, and often they were as glad to get away from other work as their former supervisors were to get rid of them. Everyone was satisfied, and the horses were well looked after. A person's work is a large part of his life, and anyone is lucky who can earn a decent living at work that suits his tastes and is neither too hard nor too easy for his powers.

And many incline the scale
To favor me in some slick sale,
To flash him back the signal, "No demand!"
Dad, you were right
And so tonight
I'd like to shake your hand, old hon, at hand.

Dad told me in my early years
I'd find some money anxious to be won,
Who'd greet me with three hearty cheers
And drop the flag before I fired a gun.
But it were best to hesitate,
Before I pledged my faith and fate.
For love's house is not built on shifting sand.
And looking back
Along the track,
I'd like to take and shake him by the hand.

Dad told me, long before his end,
A good sport isn't one who blows
his pile,
But he is just the quiet friend
Who sticks through every trouble
With a smile.
Somewhere beyond the Outer Space
I hope to meet dad face to face
And tell him how, at last, I understand.
Best friend I had
Was good, old dad,
And how I'd like to take him by the hand.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

If I correctly judge from the persistent appearance in some of the drug store windows of sampling displays of face powders, washes, creams and other articles, that presumably are designed to play an important part in the mysteries of the feminine toilet, an effort is being made to introduce into Lowell the fad that has held such sway in other parts of the country of women considering the enamelling of their faces as much a part of the duties pertaining to the beginning of the day as putting on their shoes. Happily this city has not thus far to any great extent been afflicted with the ravages of the painted-face epidemic. As one journeyman southward and westward toward New York elaborately made-up countenances become more and more numerous in the streets. In Worcester perhaps one woman in five will be seen with her natural complexion carefully disguised with face powder. In Providence the number of victims of the make-up craze reach a 50-50 basis. In Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport the proportion of users of complexion paints to non-users, rises to 75 per cent., while in New York practically every woman seen in the street, regardless of age, wears a face that she has purchased in a cosmetic store. I suppose there is something to be said in favor of the face-powder craze. At any rate it has its advantages. It is argued that a woman has the same right to paint her face to make herself attractive that she has to deck herself out in pretty clothes. Perhaps this is true, but nevertheless there will continue to be, I imagine, a lot of old-fashioned folk who will continue to look askance upon the enamelled face and to have a contempt for those who adopt such artificial means of appearing beautiful.

CAUGHT S.O.S. CALL

Radio Operator Who Gave Tip on Flight of Submarine S-5, Did Not Violate Regulation

FARMINGTON, Conn., Sept. 16.—David L. Moore, a radio operator here, who caught a call for assistance telling of the plight of the crew of the submarine S-5, recently, has been informed by the bureau of navigation that he did not violate the spirit of any wireless regulation.

The letter informed him that the S.O.S. call was sent broadcast, and was not a confidential government message. Mr. Moore, therefore, did no wrong in informing the Hartford Courant of the call. The contents of the message, made available to the Associated Press, brought to public notice the remarkable experiences of the submarine's crew and their rescue after nearly two days' submersion.

First Motion Pictures of Pope Benedict and the Vatican at Merrimack Square Theatre

The first motion pictures ever shown in America of Pope Benedict and the Vatican will be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre, beginning Wednesday on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. COMMUNIOATION

To the Editor of the Lowell Sun.
Dear Sir:—I deny that I ever made the statement alleged by former Mayor O'Donnell at the charter commission Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, 1920, that the office of superintendent of police is the highest within the gift of the people. What I did say, however, was that the late Hon. Samuel P. Hadley did say that I should accept the position of superintendent of police, one of the most honorable positions in the gift of the people.

Very truly yours,
EDMUND WELCH,
Supt. of Police.

Because soldier is feeling much relieved and from examination by government physicians, must have been found considerably better from the gasping he received while a prisoner of the British Army all through the world war. My mother, who is seventy years of age, has started taking your wonderful medicine and it has helped her very much. It sure is the "stuff." Soldier's name and address sent on request.

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use from shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, lustrous and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your drug-gist gives you Mulsified.—Adv.

Peeling the Skin is Better Than Bleaching

Ever since the discovery that ordinary mercurized wax would absorb and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. Its beneficent action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying high prices for "special bleach" from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercurized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all druggists, who have it in original, one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The favorite lotion for wrinkles and flabbiness has also become extremely popular. One ounce of powder, used judiciously, is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a remarkable effect in erasing wrinkles and in improving contour.—Adv.

League Council Discusses Conflict

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The council of the league of nations met here today and discussed the conflict between Sweden and Finland relative to the Aland islands. Poland and Lithuania had been asked to send delegates to the meeting. The Polish government asked that the frontier controversy which has threatened serious consequences be considered by the council. Leon Bourgeois, president of the council, was in the chair. Among others attending were Herbert A. L. Fisher for Great Britain and M. Matsui for Japan.

bers who desire to take part in the parade are asked to communicate with the headquarters of the organization, 81 Merrimack street, telephone 5097, as soon as possible.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

WHAT NICK SAW

Mr. Scribble Scratch, the fairy school-master, laid down his chalk when Mark Muskrat called out that there was a spider-web over the hole in the floor, so that Muffy Mole and Floppy Field Mouse couldn't have gone that way when they disappeared.

Sat' Ann Spider, over in her corner, went on industriously with her spinning and never bickered an eye-lid.

NICK HANDED IN THIS REPORT: "YOUR SON IS PLAYING TRUANT."

"We'll have to send the attendance officer for them at once," said Scribble Scratch, looking worried.

But Nick was already busy. He had heard what the little mole-boy and mouse-boy had said to the spider-girl on their way to school, so he was watching. After school had taken up, he saw the earth moving suspiciously.

him to hurry, longing just as much for a chance at a sweet-corn patch, as Muffy was for juicy earthworms. Pretty soon Floppy would wiggle through the top earth and chase like a streak across the meadow to the cornfield.

At first Nick thought of digging up the culprits and hauling them back to school, but he knew what a quick digger Muffy was, and it was altogether his decision upon another plan. With his Green Shoes on, he found Munchie Mouse's house in the cellar of Maple Tree Flat, and from there he went across Root Street to Mike Mole's front door.

In both cases he handed in this report: "Your son is playing truant!" (Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

fact that many progressives and radical republicans had attended the democratic meetings and were anxious to get the democratic point of view on the great questions of the day, including the League of Nations.

Mayor Peters was chairman of the man meeting on the common. He told briefly of the great work the democratic party had done the past years and eulogized the democratic standard bearers. He said it was significant that the democratic party was the first to recognize women's fitness for political office and he introduced Mrs. Alice E. Cram, democratic nominee for the office of state auditor.

Mrs. Cram was warmly received and her wit kept the audience in good humor for about 10 minutes. She said it was with a feeling of great pride that she stood before a Boston audience the first woman nominated by any party for a state executive office. The women of the land were not indebted to electorship for the vote, they—the women—had fought for it themselves for 273 years and especially for the Susan B. Anthony amendment the past 70 years.

But the democratic party had shown its progressive spirit by nominating a woman for the office of auditor in every state, in which six women to every four men worked in the state executive department. She pointed out that her republican opponent had been discredited by his own party, and if he were to be elected, she thought that God would really have to save the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Julius Marx of Mattapan answered the charges and criticisms which have recently been made against Gov. Cox, the democratic presidential nominee, by republican splinterers and propagandists. He cited the great record of the Ohio governor in that state—the legislation he had initiated and put through including the revision of the state constitution; the breaking up of the Boss Cox-Forsaker-Standard Oil ring; the establishment of the referendum of the eight-hour law; the minimum wage for women; the abolition of child labor; the establishment of a workmen's compensation act and a scheme of workmen's insurance and the Golden Rule policy in industrial disputes.

He also took up the charges that have recently been made about Gov. Cox's pro Germanism during the war and showed that no governor in the country had done more to help win the war than Gov. Cox, whose slogan in his last campaign was "Win the War." He was the first governor to offer a completely equipped division after war had been declared.

Roosevelt Gets Great Reception Franklin D. Roosevelt got a great reception. He did not arrive until Judge Marx was about to finish and he was introduced at once by Mayor Peters. He said in part:

"When the democratic party came into power in 1912 conditions in the country were in a chaotic state, and the president, with the aid of a democratic senate and a democratic house of representatives, set out, without the loss of time, to remedy these unsatisfactory conditions, and in a period of nearly six years prior to the present republican congress there was more legislation of a constructive nature put on the statute books than has ever been placed there since the formation of the Union.

"While there are many measures which can be dignified by terming them most important, there are many more which linked with these 'most important' measures make the great record of the democratic party one in which every citizen now has such justifiable pride. I will not attempt to point out at this time any particular measure, but rather will give you a resume of every act passed by the democratic administration, each one of which has been of immeasurable benefit to the people of the country:

"1—The income tax.
"2—The Federal Reserve system.
"It is needless to point out the fact that these two measures were the controlling factor in making it possible for this country to finance the Great World war recently successfully won.

Publicity of Campaign Expenses

"3—Publicity of campaign expenses. It is not for this measure, it would probably have been impossible to have detected the fraud in a certain election which terminated in the indictment, conviction and sentencing to the penitentiary of a republican member of the United States senate.

"4—The eight-hour day.

"5—Safety appliances on railroads and mines.

"6—Workmen's compensation act.

"7—Farm loan banks.

"What farmer in this country would want to go back to that portion of the 'good old days' advocated by the president? This law for the first time made possible the financing of the agricultural interests of America.

"8—Federal aid for good roads.

"9—Soldiers' compensation laws.

"10—War risk insurance.

"11—Pensions for soldiers of all our wars.

"12—Establishment of the department of labor.

"This department was established after great pressure had been exerted by the democratic house of representatives. The establishment of this bureau gave to labor a seat in the president's cabinet, and today the laboring-man is feeling the effect of the many acts which have been placed on the books for his benefit, i. e., the 8-hour law; the child labor law; the workmen's compensation law, and many others.

"In fact, in the three or four years more remedial legislation covering the great questions of labor has been enacted than in any previous period of 30 or 40 years. Practically all of this remedial legislation had the direct opposition of Senator Harding himself and the little group in the senate with whom Senator Harding had aligned himself in the present campaign. In other words, this group of 'political friends' has never given its sanction, much less its vote, to a remedy of the

FIFTY YEARS AGO

It was the custom of our grandfathers when anything was the matter with their stomach, liver or kidneys, to take a remedy composed of the right kind of roots and herbs, and by so doing lived to a ripe old age. It is also true that the Shakers, who have always depended upon the life-giving juices of leaves, roots and herbs, are long-lived people. The roots and herbs of which SEVEN BARKS is principally composed were gathered by the Shakers for many, many years, then scientifically blended, and SEVEN BARKS has become famous as one of the most reliable remedies for indigestion, Constipation, Liver, Kidney and Stomach disorders.

Dull pains in the back, often under the shoulder blades, poor indigestion, heartburns or flutters, sour risings, yellow skin mean liver troubles, and you should take SEVEN BARKS; it will relieve you, as it will make the liver active, tone up the digestive organs and cause the bowels to act normally.

SEVEN BARKS is not a cure-all, but a very reliable remedy that will at once act on the liver, stomach and bowels, sets them to right, tones and strengthens the general health.

If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, enjoy and prolong your life, take SEVEN BARKS. At drugists, 60 cents a bottle. Don't put it off; get it today.—Adv.

Says Progressives Helped

"13—The tariff commission.

"14—The federal trade commission.

"15—Our merchant marine.

"16—The thousand and one war measures" which enabled us to so organize the government of the United States as to successfully finance and successfully carry out the great business of helping our Allies to defeat the central powers in the World war.

"Let us repeat, however, once more, the fact that these great achievements were not accomplished altogether by the democratic party. They had the support of the far-seeing, progressive men, but not the reactionary group in the house and senate. The group of democratic members of congress in 1912, who remedied the unsatisfactory conditions which I have stated existed in the country prior to 1912.

"One of the issues in this campaign is the question of our relations with foreign powers and our duty toward our recent allies. There is talk of rather mere words coming out of Marion, Ohio, of a proposition to establish 'an association of nations.' 'What does the senator from Ohio mean by an association of nations?' Does he intend to go back to the days of the Hague tribunal, when every one knows that this organization failed utterly. With the tremendous progress made by the world in the last few years, it is not possible for this country to have a weak foreign policy. It is contrary to our policy which the country has had in the past.

"We have always been enough American and possessed with enough courage to stand by the rights of the weak against the strong. We have been South and Central America. It has been the great moral force of our country which has kept for them for the past 25 years their liberty and their independence, and now for the first time the republican national convention want this country to have a foreign policy which is straddling and even more cowardly."

Mr. Roosevelt indulged only a few times in reference to his republican opponent for vice president, Governor Coolidge. He devoted his entire speech to a statement of the achievements of the administration during the past eight years, and to an outline of the concrete program which he believes Gov. Cox will carry out in the next four.

He laughingly referred to the telegram which Gov. Coolidge had sent to Senator Harding congratulating the latter on his election, as a result of the returns from Maine, and then called attention to the fact that Charles E. Hughes was congratulated too soon in 1916.

Later he was picturing the League of Nations as the embodiment of orderly government throughout the world and he apologized for borrowing the phrase "law and order."

Again he referred to the Coolidge speech against autocracy in New Hampshire last week and said that he could agree with his opponent in what he said, just as he agreed with him "in all the fine things he has said about the American flag."

He took one or two real flings at Senator Lodge, whom he grouped with members of the senate who "would have the president of the United States acting as errand boy for congress."

Explains Article Ten During his advocacy of the League of Nations Mr. Roosevelt was interrupted once or twice by remarks from the crowd. "What about Article X?" asked someone, and Mr. Roosevelt went into a discussion of that phase of the treaty, arguing that it would not compel the sending of American troops abroad to fight the battles of European nations.

He said that the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine in 1821 was a bolder and more daring step than is contemplated in the League of Nations. When he referred to the action of President Cleveland in sending a message to England to keep out of Venezuela there was a storm of applause, at the conclusion of which there was a voice from the crowd:

"Send them another message now telling them to keep out of Ireland!"

There were frequent shouts of approval from women, who were out in large numbers at the first big outdoor rally of the campaign, and when Mr. Roosevelt "thanked God" that the 15th amendment had been adopted, he was given one of the biggest demonstrations of the evening.

NEW YORK PHYSICIAN TELLS WHY MORE ORGANIC PHOSPHATE MEANS MORE NERVE VITALITY

The Nerves, the Blood, the Bones of Over 40% of American Men and Women Need Organic Phosphat and Need It Badly

A Vigorous Healthy Body and Keen Active Mind Belongs to Those Who Have Plenty of It.

When will weak, played-out, thin, puny and ambitious people learn that there is nothing much the matter with them and that all they need is a few grains of the right kind of phosphate every day for a few weeks to make them as energetic, vigorous and forceful as of old?

Every month, thousands of people are learning that lack of sufficient nerve vitality is the underlying cause of many diseases.

Your nerves control your body and without an abundant supply of nerve force life is worry, fear and disappointment.

Phosphorus is one of the vital elements of every living cell in your body and there are millions of them. Nature's way is to supply phosphorus to these cells with the food you eat in the form of phosphates.

But to millions of people modern foods do not supply enough organic phosphate, so there you are. And just for the lack of this same organic phosphate which every drug-sist sells under the name of Bitro-Phosphate 10 per cent, and over of the men and women of America are today crying in the wilderness for health and strength and a chance to live a cheerful vigorous, helpful life.

"Nerve weakness, both physical and mental, is indeed a curse to the nation," says a well-known New York physician.

Feed your nerves the food that makes nerve force; that helps to rebuild every run-down, starving cell in your body.

If I had my way Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor in the land," says Frederick M. Kolbe, M.D., Editor-in-Chief of Physicians "Who's Who," a nationally known author of medical text books and a brilliant physician.

Later on, Dr. Kolbe says: "It is not difficult to detect women who have plenty of nerve vitality; nerves that are rich in organic phosphate" (this is equally true of men); "the women are usually cheerful, magnetic and pleasing; they have youth and vigor at 50 and even 60 years and are bubbling over with vitality. You don't find them pale, weak, nervous or haggard looking at 40 or complaining of this or that ailment."

Every day, thousands of men and women who are losing their youth before their time; whose mental and physical powers are so limited that total discouragement is near, are learning that Bitro-Phosphate is a simple organic phosphate that A. W. Down and every druggist dispenses, is all they need to re-establish nerve vitality, strength and keenness of mind.

MORE POWER VALUE FROM FUEL IS AIM

BY HARRY B. HUNT

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—America's leadership in the use of the internal combustion engine, and of power derived from petroleum and its products, depends in the future not so much on the ability of geologists and oil wildcaters to locate new oil fields from which fuel may be drawn as upon the ability of our mechanical engineers to develop more efficient motors, in the view of government scientists studying the problem.

Only from 10 to 40 per cent. of the power in a barrel of fuel oil or gasoline is utilized in the present-day internal combustion engine. Only from 10 to 15 per cent. of the power, value of fuel oil is delivered to the propellers of a ship burning oil for the making of steam, while between 25 and 40 is the efficiency of the Diesel type heavy oil engine.

Big Auto Waste
The average automobile gets out of a gallon of gasoline less than 35 per cent. of its power efficiency.

Conservation of power now wasted is the biggest problem, in fact, before power engineers.

Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and allied industries, recently announced that his concern had perfected a new type Diesel engine that would save two-thirds of the oil consumed by Diesels of the old type.

Over-Optimistic
Mechanical and power engineers in the government bureau of standards believe Schwab is over-optimistic. Government engineers say the Schwab engine utilizes the detonating force in the explosion of fuel oil and is of much lighter construction than either the German or Swiss Diesels.

C. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the bureau of mines, says if Schwab's engine delivers more than 45 per cent. of the power in a barrel of fuel oil it becomes no longer a Diesel type, but must utilize some new heat cycle.

The future of America's merchant marine, in the opinion of many, lies in the use of an internal combustion engine instead of the steam boiler fired by fuel oil.

Criminal Waste
"The use of fuel oil under steam boilers at an efficiency of 10 to 15 per cent," says David White, chief of United States geologists, "when its use in the Diesel engine would give 25 to 30 per cent, is a criminal waste."

Yet against this protest, the shipping board is installing oil burners on virtually the whole of our merchant fleet. Because:

To burn oil requires only an ordinary workman as a signpost to regulate the flow of oil to the burners. To run a Diesel requires skilled engineers of the highest type.

To install oil burners requires no change in boilers or engines. To install Diesels would require the scrapping of all power equipment in the old steam plants and its replacement with an entirely different type of machinery.

When the price of gasoline reaches a point where fuel consumption rather than initial price becomes the determining factor, then the most efficient use of gasoline and fuel oil will be attained.

Anyway, the petroleum men have passed the problem to the engineers. And the engineers promise that they will show some helpful results.

PORTUGAL IS SUFFERING

Great Shortage of Coal and Provisions—Stores Looted—Bolshevik Plot to Provokes Disturbance

LISBON, September 15.—Portugal is suffering from a shortage of coal and provisions which has resulted in looting of food stores in some parts of the country and in the reappearance of the formerly familiar long lines of women standing outside of bakeries waiting for bread. The situation has been complicated by an attempt of the minister of the interior published in the Seculo that the government has become aware of a Bolshevik plot to provoke disturbances all over Portugal, so as to lead up to a general movement later. The minister made it known that the government had taken precautions to frustrate those plans.

There have been severe conflicts at Santarem, Setubal and in other parts of the country where stores have been looted and emptied of their contents. The military authorities assumed control in Santarem and order was restored but subsequently fish riots occurred. The Santarem fish market was attacked by a mob which seized the fish and divided it among themselves.

Dry cod formerly was the chief and favorite food of the people, but is now so expensive that only the well-to-do can afford it. One shopkeeper appeared the mob by distributing his supply of codfish and thus was allowed to retain his other wares.

The seriousness of the shortage of food and fuel has been emphasized by a statement of Premier Graulo made in parliament in which he said that there was a lack not only of coal and provisions but of all other articles indispensable for living. Since there was only 10,000 tons of sugar to supply the country, the government was going to prohibit its sale in restaurants and pastry shops so that the hospitals of Portugal might not run short.

"Butter, lard, coal, oil and even vegetables have disappeared from the market since government prices were fixed for those articles," said the premier. "The bread question is even more desperate than the others. The wheat in this country will barely suffice to supply bread for the next five days. Wheat contracts are being closed by the government at a very high price. The maize harvest is so bad that we have already imported 100,000 tons of it. There is no coal in the city of Lisbon where the poor are tearing up their floors to cook their food and the foreign coal is sold at such an exorbitant price that it does not even allow our fishing vessels to go to sea for fish."

In view of this crisis, the premier appealed to parliament for aid and efforts are being made to obtain wheat from the big farmers in the Ribatejo district.

Heard What Another Woman Said

Mrs. Margaret Bonnell of Murray street, St. John, N. B., writes: "I heard a lady saying she bought a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir for her children and it was splendid. I am glad to know of something good now. I got a bottle and I think it is great." The laxative mentioned above is Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. It is very pleasant to take; children like it, and is mild in action. No harmful drugs. It's surprising to know the number of youngsters and even grown-ups who suffer from worms but don't realize it. Every one needs a good laxative to avoid stomach troubles. Signs of Worms: Offensive breath, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, pain about the navel, pale face, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, red points on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever, etc.

TO SIFT IRISH CHARGES

Committee of 100 Americans to Ask British and Sinn
Fein for Facts

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Oswald Garrison Villard announced last night that 100 representative Americans had accepted his invitation to constitute a non-partisan commission to sift charges of atrocities in Ireland made against one another by the British government and Sinn Fein.

The announcement says the committee of 100 on Ireland, as it will be known, feels that some neutral action is necessary in order to preserve Anglo-Saxon friendship and to prevent the spread of ill-will, with the possibility of such irritation driving the United States and Great Britain into war.

Referring to Anglo-American relations, the invitation says that one grave result of the present situation is "the rapid growth of anti-British feeling, which seriously threatens the unbreakable calm of peace between the United States and Great Britain and endangers the peace of the world."

The program of the committee is not fully developed, but its sponsors suggest that the British government, Sinn Fein and others be asked to present such evidence of violence or wrong-doing as they possess. The committee, it is said, will designate from its own members, or outside, a small commission to hear testimony and make a thorough and impartial report. The committee plans to begin sessions in Washington early in October. The announcement says:

"It is understood that Pres. de Valera is ready to appear before such a body, and that Mrs. MacSwiney, wife of the imprisoned mayor of Cork, will cross the ocean for the same purpose. The English point of view will be presented equally fully. The project does not contemplate any recommendations in regard to future political relations between Great Britain and Ireland."

Mr. Villard's statement says that the representative Americans on the committee of 100 include United States senators, representatives in Congress, judges, business and labor circles. A partial list of acceptances is made public, including Senators Ashurst of Arizona, Spencer of Missouri and Walsh of Massachusetts. The list contains no representatives in Congress, but names the mayors of Newark, N. J., Jersey City, N. J., and New York City, St. Joseph, Mo., Cambridge, Mass. (Edward W. Quinn), Toledo and Omaha.

Among others are United States District Judge Amlund of North Dakota, William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., A. P. Moore of Pittsburg, William Knapp of Haverhill, Mass., and Joseph H. Baker of Washington, D. C., and John Smith of Chicago, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university, as well as a number of others having university connections; Maurice F. Egan, former minister to Denmark; Owen R. Loveney, secretary of the National Child Labor committee, and Dudley Field Malone of New York.

Blaze of Color—State Commander Speaks

The Casino in Thorndike street was a blaze of color last evening at the opening of the three-day carnival of the Lowell Post of the American Legion and everywhere were heard words of praise for the very worthy object actuating the splendid efforts of the post, the Legion, and the volunteer committee of citizens.

The Casino is prettily decorated with the national colors and the flags of the allied nations, with most flags adorning the platform and large streamers of red, white and blue suspended from corners and other places throughout the building. There are also many winners at the chance wheels are made happy with dolls, candy, aluminum ware, and other household utensils and other things. Shoplifters in Court charged against the other woman.

On the afternoon of September 3 Inspector Dwyer and Lieut. Maher were called to one of the 10-cent stores where the floor-walker of the A. G. Pollard company had detained the two women after following them from his store through several others down town. When apprehended the Millard woman stated that she thought she could get away with the goods because the Rogers woman had done so, so easily.

The Rogers woman admitted upon the stand that no one knew that the goods in her home had been stolen, not even her husband, that she owned and operated an automobile, and that in some cases she took some of the goods to various stores and returned them for cash.

In making the decision the court stated that in the case of the Millard women it was plainly her first offense, but that her friendliness with the Rogers woman made disposition difficult. He stated, however, that he was convinced that the other defendant was a practiced shoplifter preying upon the storekeepers and the public and could not offer anything less than a direct sentence. Counsel for the defense asked for leniency on the grounds that practically all of the goods which were stolen would be returned to the store and that they would be at no financial loss.

When arrested the two defendants were together, both having bags and stolen goods in both. The cases were first called on September 3 and continued until this morning.

Thousands of Women

Why is it so successful? Simply because of its sterling worth. For over forty years it has had no equal. Women for two generations have depended upon it with confidence.

Thousands of Their Letters are on our files, which prove these statements to be facts, not mere boasting.

Here Are Two Sample Letters:

Fall River, Mass. — "Three years ago I gave birth to a little girl and after she was born I did not pick up well. I doctored for two months and my condition remained the same. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband suggested that I try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it immediately and I felt better and could eat better after the first bottle, and I continued taking it for some time. Last year I gave birth to a baby boy and had a much easier time as I took the Vegetable Compound for four months before baby came. On getting up I had no pains like I had before, and no dizziness, and in two weeks felt about as well as ever." — Mrs. THOMAS WILKINSON, 363 Columbia Street, Fall River, Mass.

Middleburg, Pa. — "I am glad to state that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me much good when I was 35 years old. I was run down with female trouble and was not able to do anything, could not walk for a year and could not work. I had treatment from a physician but did not gain. I read in the papers and books about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. The first few bottles gave me relief and I kept on using it until I got better and was able to do my work. The Vegetable Compound also regulated my daughter when she was 15 years old. I can recommend Vegetable Compound as the best medicine I have ever used." — Mrs. W. YERGES, R. 3, Box 21, Middleburg, Pa.

The Purple Cross

PURPLE CROSS FOR FUNERALS

Undertakers' Convention at Springfield Voted To Identify Hearse and Limousines

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 15.—The Massachusetts Undertakers Association at its 25th annual convention in this city, voted to adopt a purple cross emblem to be used on hearses and limousines in funerals to identify them so that traffic policemen will not cause gaps in such processions by permitting part of the automobiles to pass a traffic regulation post and holding others back.

The device will also identify the funeral automobiles so that drivers of other vehicles will not attempt to break through a funeral procession.

We feel we have been honored by the Massachusetts Undertakers Association in the adoption of our idea, that all funeral corteges bear the SIGN OF THE PURPLE CROSS, which your four cars are anxious to have the approval of the Leading Funeral Directors throughout the country as well as the Officers who direct traffic in the many cities where we have been called.

CHINA'S PERILS BRAVED BY THEM
SAN FRANCISCO—After enough perils and adventures to fill a large book the Misses Frances (above) and Marion Smith (below), daughters of a St. Louis manufacturer, are safe here. The two girls were on a year's tour of the Orient when they were caught between the fighting factions of north and south China during a campaign against the Anfu forces. They escaped on the last train to leave Peking after being isolated in the city for some time when communication lines were cut. They sailed from Shanghai here.

FERDIE HARKINS LOOKS FOR BIG-POLO YEAR

Ferdie Harkins, who will manage the Hartford club in the American Polo League this season, was in Lowell yesterday, and in discussing the outlook for the 1920-1921 season which opens on Saturday night said that he looked for a very successful year.

He expects Hartford and Bridgeport, the two new clubs added to the circuit, to be successful. He played polo down in the Nutmeg state about nine years ago and he said that the fans there are very enthusiastic over the game. He said that some of the clubs in the league last season may not prove as good as formerly, but added that in the event of any falling down, he was confident that new homes could be found in Connecticut cities.

He said that several of the players, who were in the league the past few seasons may not be back in uniform this season. A couple of them have landed good jobs and do not care to leave them. Fred Williams, Ted Lewis and a couple of others have announced that they will not come back and Ferdie felt that they may get the fever when the bell rings.

Paul Gardner also is out of the game, being engaged in business in New Bedford. Frank Hardy of Salem has a very lucrative position, but he has agreed to play if he succeeds in getting a leave of absence.

Harkins is down to weight and looks to be in perfect condition. He regrets leaving Lowell, but feels that it's all in the same, and if he did not just as hard "slog" up as he did for us for three consecutive years.

Harkins says he looks to see Davies, the young Lowell rush, to be one of the stars of the league this season. He said that with two such capable and experienced men as Doherty and Hart with him, the "Stars" is bound to go big. Harkins also had a lot of praise for Welch, the new Lowell goal tender. He added that he looked to the Lowell quintet right up in the running.

The Worcester team with Bob Griffith, formerly of Lowell, and Jigger Higgins in the lineup, will play Lowell in the first game of the season here on Saturday night.

ALL IN READINESS FOR LAWRENCE BOUT

LAWRENCE, Sept. 16.—Everything is in readiness for the Lew Tander-Frankie Callahan bout which will be fought Saturday afternoon at Cuddy Brothers arena and if the advance sale of tickets is any criterion, the biggest crowd ever known to have witnessed prize fight in this section of the country will be at the contest.

Matchmaker Johnny Cuddy was in luck in securing these great fighters for the fans throughout the city and in fact everywhere have been anxious to see them pitted against each other. Tander and Callahan are in splendid shape and the fans should get wonderful battle. Both boys are exceptionally clever and as the winner will virtually become the lightweight champion, it will be a bout worth going to see.

The program will start at 2:30 o'clock with a six rounder between Buddy Dolan and Kid O'Brien. There will be two other rounders. Mike Castle of Lawrence will meet Jack O'Leary of Boston and Kid Thomas and Barney Burke, two local boys will swap blows for eight rounds.

These bouts will be conducted under the rules of the state boxing commission and there will not be the slightest hitch.

LIMIT INTRODUCING BOXERS

Hard Blow to "Roundy" Ben Keaveney of Alb—Billy Gardner Gets Referee's License—Judges Must Name Winner

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The boxing commissioners stated yesterday that, in order to prevent delays at boxing meetings, they have made a rule that no boxers will be allowed to be introduced at any show except those who are to box in the main bout at the club's next show; also that no club will be allowed to announce the program of another club's show. Another rule is that no fighter will be allowed to box twice within 24 hours, preventing a boxer from appearing at one club two nights in succession.

The Union Square A.C. of Somerville was granted a license. The following were granted licenses to be referees: Jimmy Walsh, Henry Oshus, Frankie Mack, Tom Sullivan of Lawrence, and Billy Gardner, judges: Tom Duffy, Ezra Harlowe, J. Shaughnessy, John Martin, C. Mooney, Fred Lincoln, Alvers, J. Riley, A. Burns and Geno Dugan.

There was considerable discussion yesterday among the fans in regard to the commissioners having the two judges and the referee write their decisions on paper after each bout. The fans wondered what would be the decision if the three wrote different decisions. The commissioners have ruled that the referee's decision would be the one to stand.

The commissioners explained that they have instructed the judges and referees to name a winner, and if they do not, the one that writes draw will be given a rest.

INDIANS SECONDS

The following members of the Indians Social team are asked to report for practice on the grounds on Friday night at 6:45 o'clock: Torrey, Mooney, McAnney, Davidson, Ingle, W. Dyer, J. Dyer, Davidson, Moss, Wylie, Cunningham, Grantz, Turner, McAnney and McAnney. Arrangements are under way to bring the first Manchester, N. H. team here for the opening game of the season, while plans are also being made to play several well known Boston eleven later.

YANKS AND DODGERS SETTING FAST PACE

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Three of the six contenders for the pennants in the National and American leagues were yesterday because of an open club of the American league, although it did not play, kept the lead in the league race but Cleveland gained a few points by defeating the Athletics. The Chicago White Sox did not play and thus the lead of the Indians widened a little the gap between second and third places. The Yankees are leading the Indians by three percentage points, or by one game as the teams stand in games won and lost. The Chicago White Sox are 17 points or two and one-half games behind the Yankees.

By winning the final game of the series from the Chicago Cubs, the Brooklyn club kept its lead in the National league of five full games over Cincinnati, which won from Philadelphia. The New York Giants did not play and are in third place, half a game behind Cincinnati.

Today the first of all the important series involving the National league pennant will be opened between Brooklyn and Cincinnati at Brooklyn. While the Superbas enjoy a comfortable lead they still have five games to play with the Giants in addition to three games with Cincinnati today, Friday and Saturday.

The New York Yankees also will open a series today at Chicago which will have vital bearing upon the American league pennant race. It will be necessary for the Yankees to win all three games of the series in order to retain first place unless the Cleveland club drops a game while the Yankees and White Sox are fighting it out.

WILL PLAY SERIES OF THREE GAMES

Manager Bird of the Gillespie, city champion baseball team has accepted the challenge of the local K. of C. team to play a series of three games, the first to be played Saturday afternoon at Spaulding park. According to agreement, "Nixie" Coughlin will umpire. The gate receipts of the game will be divided on a 60-40 basis, the larger share going to the Gillespies. Because the last game, which these two teams played in the Twilight league brought a 1 to 0 victory for the Knights which was later reversed by a ruling of the league to victory for the Gillespies, this series will be played but with no bearing upon the standing of the league or the league. The 1 to 0 victory was changed to the Gillespies because the Knights had used three out-of-town players in the game.

BENEFIT BALL GAME

The Gillespie Champions and the American Legion Team Will Meet on South Common This Evening

The American Legion team and the Gillespie outfit will clash on the South common this evening at 5:45 in a benefit game for "Bucky" Freeman, a former player for the South End, now confined in a hospital, disabled by injuries received in the war. The regular Gillespie lineup will be used and the Legion will have the following: Jenkins, etc.; Lynch, R. Duffy, 2b; Cavanagh, 3b; Dillon, c; Lyons, rf; Gallagher, ss; Devlin, p; Dolan and Harrington as substitute pitchers and Twohey as sub-fielder will be on the bench for the Legion.

DODGERS AND REDS CLASH

NEW YORK, September, 16.—Brooklyn and Cincinnati clashed today in the first of three games that will have an important bearing on the outcome of the pennant race in the National league. Brooklyn, now leading the league by a comfortable margin, has 12 more games to play. If it breaks even in these contests it will finish the season with 90 victories and 84 defeats. Cincinnati, to nose out Brooklyn, would have to capture 15 of its 19 games, while the Giants would have to win 15 out of 17.

New York, perched on the top round of the American league ladder by a slim hold, has 13 more games to play, Cleveland 17 and Chicago 14.

YANKS VS. WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—A three-game series that may play a big part in deciding the American league pennant winner opened here today when the White Sox met the Yankees. In addition, Babe Ruth was after his 26th circuit drive.

The White Sox entered today's contest with a record of only eight games won out of the last 19 played. Dick Kerr, left hander, was slated to pitch against Jack Quinn.

A band of 50 pieces from St. Mary's Industrial school, Baltimore, where Ruth spent several years, was at the game.

Soft rich fabrics—duvetyne and velvet chief among them; the equally soft, rich tones, startled into vividness here and there with a dash of brilliant coloring.

In the display are soft draped effects in close fitting turbans—chic little affairs that may be used on almost any occasion. Then there are the handsome medium and large hats which have slightly rolled or flared brims.

Irregular lines are greatly in evidence—points and rims cut short or accentuated in some places. Then there may be a high turn on the side with a droop on the other. HOBOS HELPED WIN WAR

Gov. Cox Offered Vagrants Choice of Working or Going to Jail—and Work

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 16.—Making constructive patriots out of vagrants was one of the war achievements of Ohio, already great in its achievements. Before the nation-wide "Work or Fight" had become a national command, Ohio had applied the stern alternative of a slightly different phraseology: "Work or go to jail and work anyhow," was her ultimatum.

How Governor Cox in his second term dug up from the dust of oblivion a law which made vagrancy not only a crime but an actual felony is told in his record as a war and reconstruction campaigner. Before the nation-wide "Work or Fight" had become a national command, Ohio had applied the stern alternative of a slightly different phraseology: "Work or go to jail and work anyhow," was her ultimatum.

Cox as a War Governor

The United States entered the war with Germany in the fourth month of Governor Cox's second term, and he set about to make Ohio responsive to every call of the nation for men, food and commodities. As a farmer he knew the importance of keeping the fields manned for a crop production that should be adequate to the needs of the nation and the allies, and at his suggestion thousands of high school and college students received credits for completing the year's school work by engaging in farming or war industries.

To meet the situation of reduced man power on the farm caused by the draft, Governor Cox issued a "farm tractor proclamation" urging all farmers, if necessary to get full acreage under cultivation, to purchase tractors. A tractor school at Ohio State university afforded to men, women and boys an opportunity to learn operation of tractors, the banks everywhere extended credit, and thousands of tractors were purchased.

The state's live free employment exchanges were increased to 36 with farm labor specialists at each of them. When the call came for thousands of cantonment and ship-builders Ohio's quota was always furnished by these exchanges overnight. This service was so well organized that the federal government adopted the Ohio plan. Most of the war activities of the state were handled through a defense council of 50 members, the outgrowth of Governor Cox's war cabinet, whose personnel included representatives of business, labor, agriculture and all the social agencies.

Within three weeks after the declaration of war with Germany the Ohio National Guard had been recruited to a strength of 27,000 officers and men and later went over the top as the Thirty-seventh Division. The Guard's Rainbow Division. In addition to these troops, more than 200,000 Ohioans went into active service, under the draft. Prior to the adoption of the selective service act the state was organized by counties through agencies of common pleas judges, so that when the draft came non-partisan boards were promptly set up to administer fairly and without taint of scandal.

Ready For Reconstruction

The war ended soon after Governor Cox's third election and he attacked the problems of reconstruction with the same energy and thoroughness that he had applied to the war activities of the state. "Ohio is ready now," was the instant reply sent by him to the question of President Wilson in the fall of 1918 as to how soon the state could be prepared to receive and care for her wounded boys who needed to be returned home for rehabilitation. One of the large state institutions was made ready for this emergency.

Other reconstruction problems he handled in the direct and business-like manner which has characterized his public career. He urged upon mayors to begin public improvements on the widest scale possible to insure employment for returning soldiers, and the state set the example by prosecuting a road building program on the greatest scale in its history.

To combat the menace of food profiteering Governor Cox called a meeting of all Ohio prosecuting attorneys and urged them to call special grand juries and to prosecute profiteers to the full extent of the law. Indictments for conspiracies to regulate or increase food prices ensued in all the larger cities; the price of bread was lowered in Columbus when the leaders of the bakers' combine in that city had been indicted and had pleaded guilty; scores of prosecutions were brought against violators of the cold

Plans for Bolshevizing the World

TOKIO, Sept. 16.—According to semi-official despatches reaching Tokio, concrete plans for Bolshevizing the world have been perfected in Moscow and agents shortly will be detailed to America, Japan, China and Asia for the campaign. The plan includes a propaganda offensive against Germany, according to these advices which declare that Bolshevik agents already are active in England and France.

Anti-Bolshevik Revolution Grows

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 13.—The anti-Bolshevik revolution in the Baku region, in the Caucasus, is reported to be gaining strength. The Russians, who recently admitted the evacuation of Baku, are still in retreat. The proposed Greek offensive against the Turkish nationalists has been held up, in order that the sultan's government may seek a compromise with the nationalists.

Storage law passed during the governor's former term, and tons of meat thereby were released at lower prices.

Handling of Industrial Unrest

When the wave of industrial unrest that succeeded the armistice swept over the country Ohio was not immune. But even in that crisis the record of six years, during which no recourse to the militia was ever found necessary, was preserved. When the steel strike involved the great steel centers of eastern and northeastern Ohio Gov. Cox issued a proclamation holding the mayors to strict accountability for the preservation of the peace. That he meant it he showed in the only instance in which it was necessary for him to act, when he removed the mayor of Canton, a democrat, for failure to preserve the peace. Under the deposed official's successor the law was successfully enforced.

The coal strike last November threatened to make industry and homes fuelless and Governor Cox obtained an agreement to abide by a solution he would offer. Before each side had had time in which to consider the proposal he submitted the strike had been settled nation-wide. But all Ohio believes that it was the action of their governor that forced the issue and brought on the national settlement.

DENONCES TREATMENT OF NEGROES BY BRITISH

LONDON, Sept. 16.—An indictment of British treatment of negroes in British East Africa is made by Sir H. H. Johnston, writing in The Observer. "Many of the assertions made before the negro conference in New York," he says, "were wild and windy, but it behooves our colonial office to explain justice done to the 4,000,000 of black and brown people in this 'colony' and 'protectorate.' Numerous instances of bullying, flogging and torture are cited by the writer.

"The natives," he says, "are slowly coalescing. Bantu with Nilot, Mohammedan with Christian and Pagan, Somali and Galla with hitherto despised negro in their common hatred of the invading white man, owing to the exceptional cruelties which have stained the white man's record during this period of 15 years. These are not cruelties of soldiers or policemen, of government servants of any kind, but of individual settlers, British or Boer in origin.

"Not only have murders, light-hearted murders, of natives taken place all too frequently, not only have revolting cruelties been committed, but, when the white delinquents are brought up for trial white juries acquit them or white judges inflict trivial penalties, or rebellious public opinion forces a governor to revise a sentence. I doubt if capital punishment for murder has ever been imposed on a white man in East Africa.

"Again, in the great war, thousands and thousands of native porters were compulsorily enrolled by our government or by the military authorities in the unhappily-styled 'Protectorates,' and the arrangements for their commissariat and their medical treatment, their lodging and clothing have been miserably inadequate, with the result that some 23,000 to 25,000 of them (it was reported) died during the pursuit of the German forces.

"The survivors have retained tongues and the power of speaking; some, even, had been mission educated and when 'Dora' (defense of the realm act) took her hand off the mail service they have stammeringly told the world outside Africa something of their preventable sufferings and even of squalidly callous and sometimes cruel treatment at the hands of the military authorities.

"Now the culminating incident is this. Some two months ago there occurred at Ndura, in British East Africa, cases of flogging and torture so severe that according to a medical officer's report in some cases 'the flogged natives died from the torture and flogging.' These 'crimes' seemingly were committed on a European's plantation. The Europeans in what is now termed a 'colony' apparently take the law into their own hands and administer punishment as they please."

STYLE SHOW WEEK MARRIAGE FAILS

MACON, Ga., Sept. 16.—Married less than six months ago before a crowd of more than 6000 spectators, and supplied with wedding gifts enough to furnish an apartment, Mrs. Florrie Jones Henry, of this city, is now suing for divorce.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry were married during "Style Show week" here in March last, in a window of the city's largest department store. The wedding presents included the bride's trousseau complete, a bedroom suite, a complete set of furnishings for the kitchen and groceries enough to last the couple for a month. The donations were made by local firms.

In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Henry says her husband spends too much of his time away from home at night.

Your druggist may not keep an imitation but they are to be found on drug-store shelves. Reliable druggists think only of the welfare of their customers. The other kind only of the greater profit to be made on imitations.

Your own judgment tells you that Fletcher's Castoria having for over thirty years at great expense held up its reputation, must jealously guard it. Then, it follows that this company must use the very best of material. Must employ experts in the selection of the herbs. Must retain skilled chemists in its manufacture.

Your same good judgment must tell you that these irresponsible imitators are trading on your credulity and the reputation built up by Mr. Fletcher, during all these years, for his Castoria.

ARMY Flier Killed AT NORTHFIELD

NORTHFIELD, Sept. 16.—Lieutenant Haven Spencer, of East Northfield, an army flier, stationed at Mineola, N. Y., was killed and Herman McMillan, of Mt. Vernon, a former navy aviator, narrowly escaped when Spencer's plane in which they were flying crashed some 100 feet to the ground while attempting to land in a small field here.

The field is a small one and Lieut. Spencer evidently misjudged the distance as he overrode the plane and hit the top of a tree. The plane toppled over and then crashed to the ground. As it hit McMillan was thrown out, landing on the ground clear of the plane, with nothing but a few scratches. Spencer was crushed in the mass of wreckage. His skull was fractured and death was almost instantaneous.

Lieutenant Spencer was the son of Mrs. Mary Spencer of East Northfield, and had flown up from Mineola to pay her a visit.

SCHOOL AND STUDY

Back at school are the boys and girls who romped carefree during the past two months of vacation. They have had an enjoyable time, no doubt indulging outdoor sports, visits to the beaches and mountains, and last but not least, attendance at the "movies."

Yes, the movies hold a high place in the amusement of the average boy and girl. The jokes are enjoyed and the stories followed with absorbing interest. If the teacher in the class room could hold the attention of her pupils half as firmly as do the movies, she would rejoice that their success was assured.

But it is a fact not generally known, that it is now very much more difficult to hold the attention of children under instruction than it was before the arrival of the moving pictures. Most of the children in the city see a picture show once a week and sometimes oftener. In addition to this they read with avidity the "funnies" of the Sunday papers, so that the average pupil attending school today can hardly be restrained from imitating the antics of the movie actors or quoting the jokes in the colored supplements, even when they are supposed to be most earnestly engaged in study.

If the teachers could use moving pictures to illustrate the various subjects of instruction, they would find it much easier to hold the close attention of their classes. Under present conditions, owing to the greater tendency to idleness and inattention, it is positively more difficult than ever to induce the pupils to put forth any sustained effort in their studies. Their work is done by snatches with a consequent lack of thoroughness that causes what they do learn to evaporate, so to speak, in a very short time.

Under such conditions, it is most difficult to have any memory work done well. Indeed the work of committing certain lessons to memory seems to be a lost art as things go nowadays in the elementary schools.

Originally this was largely due to the fact that the school books, supplied by the city, were not to be taken home by the pupils. Eventually it became a fixed custom that grammar school pupils studied nothing at home with the exception of a few problems given in the upper grades. Herein lies an educational waste, a loss of opportunity, and the formation of a habit of idleness in periods that might be devoted to useful study without any danger either to body or mind. When the high school studies come, the student who takes the leading courses will have to spend much time in home study in order to keep up. Had he previously formed the habit, he would find his work in this period much easier.

Under present conditions, the teaching is becoming more difficult as time advances, although neither parents nor school boards may realize the fact. The pupil's mind is so much absorbed in outside diversions that hard study becomes repulsive. Mental relaxation is useful and even necessary in case of the hard working student, but the chief difficulty teachers experience is in getting pupils to settle down to real earnest study so as to be entirely free from outward distractions which prevent thoroughness of work and retard progress.

INCITING CIVIL WAR

It has been announced that the British cabinet, which means Sir Edward Carson, has decided to put arms in the hands of "well disposed persons" in Ireland and give them full power to maintain order. The well disposed under consideration are the members of Carson's army. This is intended as a step to force the people into civil war. The government doesn't care to have the troops mow the people down. It prefers to arm the loyalists and give them authority to shoot as many of the others as they please. This is but an application of England's age-long policy of "divide and conquer."

Some London journals stand aghast at the fact that one of their number, perhaps the most radical, has been found to be recruiting Bolshevik gold in lieu of putting out their propaganda. These journals should not affect so much surprise, as they have openly advocated the spread of paid propaganda work in the United States and at the present time, British gold is being used to buy up newspapers and subsidize news syndicates so as to mould American opinion in favor of England.

The school committee spends nearly a third of all the money raised by taxation. This fact emphasizes the importance that serious consideration shall be given to Mayor Thompson's suggestion that the city committee shall be entirely divorced from the municipal council and set up in housekeeping of its own.

It is reported that in the past a large percentage of street railway transfer tickets have been issued to persons with a view to getting something for nothing, for afterwards they threw them away. That item will be eliminated from the expense account of the Eastern Massachusetts company in the future.

It used to be the custom to celebrate the bridegroom of his luck in gaining a charming bride, but the newspapers of Paris have set a new fashion in complimenting Marshal Pétain on his strategy in outwitting the reporters and photographers who had hoped to be present at his wedding.

Italian workmen, who have taken over the operation of two large Milan factories, are reported to be working without any prospect of being paid. That ought to be an object lesson to anyone anywhere who is inclined to be awayed by "Red" arguments.

If the suggestion of Miss Mary MacSwiney, that the American friends of the Irish republic apply economic pressure to England, should be carried out, we might confidently expect in the very near future to see John Bull with tears streaming down his cheeks pleading that he will be good hereafter.

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY

Mayor Thompson, in his remarks before the charter commission Tuesday evening, called attention to a fact that deserves to be kept ever prominently in mind, namely that the city of Lowell is a big corporation, with annual expenditures at the present time of approximately $7,000,000, and that if it is to be successfully managed, it must be along lines that have worked out well in big business enterprises. He also emphasized another matter of importance, when he called attention to the desirability of making it easier for voters to fix responsibility when things go awry in the city government.

In the past we have been chary about clothing individual officersholders with too much power. We have gone on the principle, seemingly, that we were quite likely to get weak or inefficient men in office and that we must surround them with such a system of checks and balances as would minimize their possibilities for doing mischief. As a consequence, the individual voter, with his conscience and his lead pencil in the polling booth, sincerely desirous of remedying conditions that he believes were not what they should be, has found it difficult, if not impossible, to apportion blame where it belonged.

If the charter commission succeeds in devising a system that will minimize the present day evils attendant upon passing the buck by municipal officials, it will deserve well of the community.

Mayor Thompson's other suggestions that greatly enlarged powers be lodged in the hands of the mayor and the school committee set up as a separate entity, with power to levy taxes and otherwise have supreme control over its affairs, are worthy of serious consideration. It may be questioned, though, whether the time has yet come for the more restricted tenure of office for department heads, and a return to the old spoils system.

SAVE POLAND

If the League of Nations is in active operation, it should make some effort to stop the warfare between Poland and Lithuania. Here are two new states set up after the war, and they have been fighting practically ever since their boundaries were laid down. Lithuania is under control of the Bolshevik leaders of Russia and Poland is fighting both by turns. She cannot continue this very long. Surely the League of Nations with its new court of justice can do something to get Poland out of her difficulties.

The new plan of hand signals for

SEEN AND HEARD

Advice for the little ones: Do your Christmas hatching early.

When it comes to chairmanship, hats off to the chairman of the charter commission.

Those howls you hear are from angry householders who bought sugar at 30 cents to board it.

An automatic chess player has been invented; most people are willing to let a machine play that game.

Lowell people wishing to familiarize themselves with the charter and modus operandi of city government in general should attend those charter commission hearings. They are educational, to say the least.

Had No Press Agent

"Shakespeare had no scenery worth mentioning." "And he had no press agent, either," said Mr. Stormington Barnes. "Otherwise there would have been no lingering doubt as to who wrote his plays."—Washington Star.

Had Family Pride

The Judge—So you claim you robbed that delicatessen store because you were starving? Why didn't you take something to eat instead of stealing all the cash out of the register? The Accused—Cause I'm a proud man Judge, an' make it a rule to pay for everything I eat.—London Blihty.

Fussy Patient

He was a very particular young man, Details, however minute, never escaped him. Nevertheless, despite all his care, he became "run-down," not through overwork, but from overfussiness. "That fussed feeling" held him in its clutches, and he had to consult a physician. After an examination, the doctor acquainted him with his malady. "It's a very prevalent illness nowadays," said he. "What you need is a tonic in the shape of sea air." "Hunt! Is that so? Well, before we go on any further, would you kindly oblige me by showing me the actual shape of sea air?"—From London Tit-Bits.

Satisfying Work

In a certain army camp there was perpetual trouble with the men, detailed to look after the horses. Many of them did not like the work and did things wrong to get out of it, and some of them were badly missed elsewhere. There was constant change and no one seemed to be satisfied. Then the psychologist was consulted, and he picked for the work a squad of the least intelligent men in the camp. The experiment worked; for the men loved the horses and liked the routine of looking after them under supervision, and often they were as glad to get away from other work as their former supervisors were to get rid of them. Everyone was satisfied, and the horses were well looked after. A person's work is a large part of his life, and anyone is lucky who can earn a decent living at work that suits his tastes and is neither too hard nor too easy for his power.

Dad Told Me

(Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)
Dad told me when I started out
A square man is the only kind
And no man has a right to doubt
That there are sixteen ounces to the pound.
And if a man inclines the scale
To favor me in some slick sale,
To flash him back the signal, "No demand!"
Dad, you were right
And so tonight
I'd like to shake your hand, old, honest hand.

Dad told me in my early years
I'd find some women anxious to be worn.
Who'd greet me with three hearty cheers
And drop the flag before I fired a gun.
But I were best to hesitate,
Before I pledged my faith and fate.
For love's house is not built on shifting sand.
And loving back
Along the track,
I'd like to take and shake him by the hand.

Dad told me, long before his end,
A good sport isn't one who blows his pile.
But he is just the quiet friend
Who sticks through every trouble
With a smile.
Somewhere beyond the Outer Space
I hope to meet dad face to face
And tell him how, at last, I understand.

Best friend I had
Was good, old dad!
And how I'd like to take him by the hand!

MAN ABOUT TOWN

If I correctly judge from the persistent appearance in some of the drug store windows of tempting displays of face powders, washes, creams and other articles, that presumably are designed to play an important part in the mysteries of the feminine toilet, an effort is being made to introduce into Lowell the fad that has laid such sway in other parts of the country of women considering the enamelling of their faces as much a part of the duties pertaining to the beginning of the day as putting on their shoes. Happily this city has not thus far to any great extent been afflicted with the ravages of the painted-face epidemic. As one journeys southward and westward toward New York, elaborately made-up countenances become more and more numerous in the streets. In Worcester perhaps one woman in five will be seen with her natural complexion carefully disguised with face powder. In Providence the number of victims of the make-up craze reach a 50-50 basis. In Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport the proportion of users of complexion paints to non-users, rises to 75 per cent while in New York practically every woman seen in a street, regardless of age, wears a face that she has purchased in a cosmetic store. I suppose there is something to be said in favor of the face-powder craze. At any rate it has its ardent defenders. It is argued that a woman has the same right to paint her face to make herself attractive that she has to deck herself out in pretty clothes. There is a truth in that, but there is also a danger in it. I imagine a lot of old-fashioned folk who will continue to look askance upon the enamelled face and to have a contempt for those who adopt such artificial means of aping personal beauty.

THREE CENT PAPER

The Evening Standard of New Bedford, at present a two cent paper, will go to three cents, beginning Monday of next week. Announcement of the advance was made today, and the causes assigned include the continuing increase and a scarcity of news print paper and the advance in raw materials, freight rates, delivery and other things.

Fred Campbell, brother of the man shot and who was present at the time, was the only witness.

CAUGHT S.O.S. CALL

Radio Operator Who Gave Tip on Plight of Submarine S-5, Did Not Violate Regulation

FARMINGTON, Conn., Sept. 15.—David L. Moore, a radio operator here, who caught a call for assistance telling of the plight of the crew of the submarine S-5, recently, has been informed by the bureau of navigation that he did not violate the spirit of any wireless regulation.

The letter informed him that the S.O.S. call was sent broadcast, and was not a confidential government message. Mr. Moore, therefore, did no wrong in informing the Hartford Courant of the call. The contents of the message, made available to the Associated Press, brought to public notice the remarkable experiences of the submarine's crew and their rescue after nearly two days' submersion.

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Lowell Sun.

Dear Sir:—I deny that I ever made the statement alleged by former Mayor O'Donnell at the charter commission session Tuesday evening, Sept. 14, 1920, that the office of superintendent of police is the highest within the gift of the people. What I did say, however, was that the rate of a councilman's salary should be made equal to the position of superintendent of police, one of the most honorable positions in the gift of the people.

Very truly yours,
EDMUND WELCH,
Supt. of Police.

Use Coconut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multifid coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use from shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls of Multifid will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Multifid coconut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multifid.—Adv.

Peeling the Skin is Better Than Bleaching

Ever since the discovery that ordinary mercurized wax would absorb and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching creams has grown rapidly. A perfect skin is infinitely more attractive than a discolored one. Its substance is used. Its beneficial action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been paying high prices for "special bleaches" from heavy specialists, soon recognize that mercurized wax outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all druggists, who have it in original, one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it like cold cream, before retiring, washing it off in the morning.

The favorite lotion for wrinkles and blemishes has also been developed. One ounce of powder exfoliate is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this has a remarkable effect in erasing wrinkles and in improving contour.—Adv.

League Council Discusses Conflict

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The council of the league of nations met here today and discussed the conflict between Sweden and Finland relative to the Aland islands. Poland and Lithuania had been asked to send delegates to the meeting. The Polish government asked that the frontier controversy which has threatened serious consequences be considered by the council. Leon Bourgeois, president of the council, was in the chair. Among others attending were Herbert A. L. Fisher for Great Britain and M. Matsui for Japan.

F. D. ROOSEVELT SEES VICTORY

Makes Prediction to 5000 in Boston as Result of Vote Cast in Maine

Reviews Achievements by Democrats—Raps Lodge—Explains Article 10

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic nominee for vice president, was the star speaker at the out-door mass meeting on Boston common last evening at the Parkman bandstand, which was attended by about 5000 people. And the way he talked to the republican party and the presidential candidate, showed that the ex-assistant secretary of the navy is a daring political navigator.

He certainly has no fears about democratic success in November, pointing out that the election in Maine was one more indication of this fact as similar elections with big republican majorities had proved the forerunners of democratic success in 1912 and 1916. He figured this out by the political "rule of three."

One thing is certain that he, Franklin D. Roosevelt, the clean cut, tall, athletic young man and able speaker, made a great hit with his Boston audience last night. He talked for an hour or more and every subject he touched—and they were many—he illuminated to the satisfaction of the crowd—even the "terrible" League of Nations, which he said could only scare one republic in the whole world—Switzerland, the most jealous of all the nations of her liberties, had joined the league.

Guest at Women's Luncheon

Before going to the meeting on the common, Mr. Roosevelt was given a luncheon at the Bellevue hotel by the women's division of the democratic party, with Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes as the hostess. There were present about 50 people, including Mayor and Mrs. Peters, Senator and Mrs. James J. Walsh, Mrs. Alice E. Cross, Mrs. Susan W. Fitzgerald, Mary Shaw, Michael A. O'Leary and Judge Robert S. Marx of Cincinnati.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was the only speaker at this gathering. He told briefly of the great reception he had had everywhere in the country during the past six weeks and of the significant

MEADS BEGINS 15-YEAR TERM

WOODSVILLE, N. H., Sept. 16.—Robert T. Meads of La Grange, Ill., Dartmouth college junior who shot and killed Henry E. Maroney of Medford, Mass., a fellow student, after a wrangling bout in a college dormitory last June, pleaded guilty to manslaughter yesterday. He was sentenced to serve 15 to 20 years at hard labor in the state prison.

Meads' plea and the sentence came unexpectedly. In advance of his indictment by the Grafton country grand jury Tuesday, trial had been set for next Monday and the stage was being prepared, with interest in the case keen because of expected disclosures regarding the smuggling of whiskey into Dartmouth college during the last college year.

The grand jury's indictment was for murder, and young Meads was brought over from the county jail, where he has been a prisoner since June, in the automobile of his father, A. H. Meads, a prominent corporation attorney of Chicago, to make the formal answer to the indictment this afternoon.

At the direction of the court, the indictment for murder was read, and the former student was asked his plea. Meads replied, "I plead guilty of manslaughter."

The indictment was handed to Judge John F. Allen of Keene, who was presiding, and he passed down to the clerk his written sentence, of not less than 15 or more than 20 years at hard labor in state prison.

Again Meads showed an entire lack of emotion, hearing the sentence without making any show of feeling. His father spoke to him, and after a few minutes he was returned to the jail. There his mother and sister, who have lived nearby all summer, awaited him.

BRITISH PROPAGANDA

Brennan Raps Pilgrim Tercentenary as Insult to Majority of Mass. Citizens

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—A public hearing was held at the State House yesterday afternoon by the commission appointed by Gov. Coolidge to consider the advisability of holding an international exposition in or near this city in the year 1925 as a part of the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims. William S. Felton, chairman, presided. Less than a dozen persons attended. The commission will hold another hearing Sept. 22.

Ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, leaning on a cane, took the opportunity to criticize the chamber of commerce for inactivity. He characterized it as "dormant and dead," "moribund" and "absolutely without interest in the commercial crisis which faces Massachusetts."

Ex-Senator James H. Brennan opposed any spirit of "internationalism," and charged that the celebration of the Pilgrim tercentenary which have already taken place were "insulting" to the vast majority of Massachusetts citizens who are of so-called alien extraction.

Calls It British Propaganda

Mr. Brennan declared he was opposed to an international exposition but favored an interstate or Pan-American exposition. He said the Pilgrim anniversary celebration on Cape Cod "has degenerated into a most disgusting spectacle of British propaganda." Insulting speeches have been delivered praising the Anglo-Saxon race as possessing superior virtues and qualities; sentiments which are offensive to the vast majority of the population of Massachusetts who are of the so-called alien extraction.

"My idea of an exposition in 1925 would be to reproduce the Battle of Bunker Hill, so that year will mark the 150th anniversary of that famous battle. There are Tories in our midst today who would eradicate all memory of Lexington and Bunker Hill because it is offensive to their British friends across the sea. There are also men who have appeared before this commission who would substitute the dollar bill for the Stars and Stripes. We are being looked upon today as a nation of fools, paying everybody's bills, feeding the children of every other nation and minding everyone else's business but that of the United States government."

Favor Industrial Exposition

Mr. Fitzgerald argued in favor of holding an industrial and commercial exposition in Boston as a means of developing foreign trade and building up the port.

"England must sell a considerable portion of its manufactures to foreign countries in order to keep its people employed," he said.

"There are between twelve and fourteen million tons of shipping in the hands of the shipping companies. It is up to Boston to get a share."

"With the chamber of commerce absolutely ignoring this problem, with the legislature entirely neglectful of it, with the leaders of the community ignoring the situation, it is the duty of such a commission as this to take the lead and revivify interest in development of foreign trade."

H. A. Kelly, representing U. C. Andrews & Company, exporters, also spoke for an industrial and commercial exposition.

Elbridge J. Anderson, representing the Pilgrim Publicity Association and the Boston City Club, spoke in favor of an exposition. He urged the setting aside of 1000 acres for the development of permanent buildings to contain halls of industrial exhibits. He suggested that the Pilgrim Pilgrimage from Lynn to Cohasset, a Pilgrim highway from Lynn to Cohasset, be established as a free port of entry for purposes of transportation of goods from the west to Europe, and use of the exposition to exhibit the products of other states. He suggested that the commission recommend that $150,000 be raised on the proposition to the extent of $300,000, and that $300,000 in stock be issued at private subscription, to defray the expenses of the exposition.

STEALTHY ANEMIA

If we could only see ourselves as others see us, or if we would only read aright the reflection in our mirror we might be saved a great deal of suffering and sickness.

Anemia approaches so stealthily that it is sometimes well advanced before its presence is recognized. The first started exclamation of alarm is the victim's first hint that there is a marked change in his appearance.

Feelings of fatigue and discomfort are the earliest manifestations of the disease and these are seldom taken seriously. Gradually the fatigue is succeeded by languidness and weakness. Small tasks become an unending walk up hill causes violent palpitation of the heart, and there is loss of weight. The nerves grow weak and the victim displays irritability under slight provocation and is extremely sensitive to noise, voices and even the laughter of children. The appetite is rickety and indigestion pains are frequent.

The condition is one that calls for a tonic. A tonic that is free from habit-forming drugs. Such a tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which have been used successfully in many families for generations. If the directions are faithfully followed and the treatment taken persistently, complete recovery may be expected. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give the blood all those missing elements necessary to give strength to the nerves, color to cheeks and nourishment to starved organs and tissues.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., of Schenectady, N. Y., publishes a little book, "Building Up the Blood," which will be sent absolutely free on request. Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of 60 cents per box.—Adv.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

THE STRAND

Gertrude Altherton's great picture-play "Out of the Storm," adapted from the famous novel "The Tower of Ivory," which will be featured at The Strand for the last three days of the week, beginning with matinee today, deals with the intricate situations, including the love affairs of a young girl, who through a series of unfortunate circumstances, finds herself dependent upon the whim of a criminal for her livelihood. Margaret, played by Barbara Castleton, cherishes the ambition to become a famous operatic singer. Her voice attracts the attention of Albert Leary, a thief, who, through a series of circumstances, is induced to help her. Margaret takes her to his home in Seattle, and sends her to a professor to have her voice cultivated. Two years later, she is arrested for singing in a hall, and the professor, losing her, advises, alone in the world, Margaret faces a situation that is indeed discouraging. Therefore, the story breathes in its picture and its exciting aspect. The situations arising from the love of Margaret for the young English lord, played by John Dwyer, and the and the English lord, form an absorbing and pathetic story that will surely hold the interest of the audience. No effort has been spared to make this picture one of the finest of its kind produced. Life in the Alaskan gold fields and the Canadian Northwest is the theme of the picture. Gladys Brockwell finds excellent opportunity to again demonstrate her exceptional ability as a screen star. It pictures life in the raw, with man's primitive emotions, purporting. It has a big theme which carries its audience from one dramatic scene to another. An exciting, then like an avalanche, the mighty rush of the story catches you and you are carried breathless to the end. A new comedy and weekly is also shown.

H. F. KEMP'S THEATRE

No better example of vaudeville versatility comes to mind than Julian Hall's "Snapshots," which very properly leads off on the best variety. "Snapshots" this week, "Hail Me!" can do about everything that would be required of several performers, and his little exhortations "Hail Me!" are exceedingly talented. The act is made up of several things. For drill, rolling negro dialect and observations Frank Peck gives a description of the very tip-top of his profession. Other acts on this bill are: John Cully & Nellie Nelson, in music and songs; a musical comedy, a pantomime specialty, and Devere & Zouater, the flying minstrels.

OPERA HOUSE

No better demonstration of the working of a stage is given than that offered in "The Woman in the Moon," being presented this week at the Opera House by the Lowell players. In the play one will find a detective and assistant working in a room above the famous "Room 13" in a hotel and in it is one of the best stage bits of business that modern drama has brought forth. With or without a new light on the workings of this wonderful instrument, Director Jack Bennett has given the result is a wonderfully accurate demonstration of the several cases and gripping situations that are developed during the progress of the play. Under your ticket, early for the remaining performances.

MERRY COMIC OPERA

Charles Ray will undoubtedly attract capacity audiences to the Merrimack Square theatre for the rest of the week by his appearance in "The Village Smith," his latest production. Once more Charlie plays the role of a country youth, but this time he has the added distinction of being fired with an ambition to become a great detective. How he makes his way to the forefront is shown most amusingly on the screen and there is enough plot and heart interest to round out a typical Ray production. As a specially directed prologue for "The Village Smith," Manager Nelson has booked Tom Brown and His Comedy, and a Henry story, the Incorporated News, a Burton Holmes travel picture and the Illustrated Digest are other good things of the current program.

THE RIALTO

A brand new and very excellent double feature bill opens at the Rialto today. Heading it is Lowell's favorite, Norma Talmadge, who appears in her latest First National release, "Yes or No?" It is a story of contrasts, upper Fifth Avenue being laid alongside the hard-boiled East Side. In each case, a girl is asked a question, and different answers are given. The rich girl says yes, and the poor girl gives a different answer. The result makes an absorbing story. Also on the bill is a Charlie Chaplin feature, "Shoulder Arms," brought here in response to many requests. "The Hawk's Trail" is also shown, as well as several shorter reels.

POLICEMEN ARRESTED

Three Salisbury Beach Officers Charged With Assisting in Promoting Auto Death Race

ENTER, N. H., Sept. 16.—Three policemen of the town of Salisbury, Mass., were arrested here yesterday, charged with aiding and abetting an automobile race, as an outgrowth of the investigation of the death of John Duffey of Lawrence, Mass., in the wreck of an automobile at Seabrook, last Friday.

The men arrested are M. J. Daler, Wilfred Fowler and Harrison Tyler, all officers who have been on duty at Salisbury beach, a shore resort.

The charge against the men, hearing of which Sept. 25, alleges that they assisted in promoting the race from Salisbury beach to Portsmouth, New Hampshire authorities contend that the car in which Duffey was a passenger on a race in the early morning on Friday, and that the two cars had raced through the darkness until the accident, was not killed. Duffey, the authorities in this state have been investigating reports that police officers of Salisbury had made a wager on the outcome of the race, and that another was the starter of the race.

YOUNG WOMAN SAYS TANLAC IS GRAND

Miss Mabel S. Deschanel Is Now an Ardent Champion of Tanlac, Since She Began Using It a Few Weeks Ago

MISS MABEL S. DESCHANEL, Popular Lewiston, Me., Woman.

Miss Mabel S. Deschanel, a popular and attractive young woman residing at No. 7 Bartlett Street, Lewiston, Me., is now an ardent champion of Tanlac. Since she began using the medicine a few weeks ago, "I prize Tanlac above every other medicine, even that which was prescribed for me," said Miss Deschanel in relating her experience recently. "I dislike publicity, but there are so many others who, no doubt, suffer as I did, I feel that I ought to tell them about it."

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion and had been under the doctor's care for six months without relief. At the time I began taking Tanlac I was on a very rigid diet and at times could not retain food of any kind. Even cold water would cause extreme nausea. I suffered from loss of appetite, severe cramping pains after eating and extreme nervousness."

"Finally my condition got so bad I simply had to give up and go to bed until I got better. I was unable to go down town to do my shopping and, although I had been under treatment for six months, there seemed to be no relief for me. Honestly, I don't believe I would be alive now if I hadn't gotten Tanlac, for I was suffering terribly and getting worse all the time."

"Finally my sister persuaded me to try Tanlac. I improved from the very first and one bottle did me more good than the six months' treatment. Why, I actually gained four pounds in weight while taking this one bottle. Adv."

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

WHAT NICK SAW

Mr. Scribble Scratch, the fairy school-master, laid down his chalk when Mark Muskrat called out that there was a spider-web over the hole in the floor, so that Stuffy Mole and Floppy Field Mouse couldn't have gone that way when they disappeared.

Sir Ann Spider, over in her corner, went on industriously with her spinning and never flickered an eye-lid.

NICK HANDED IN THIS REPORT: "OUR SON IS PLAYING TRUANT."

"We'll have to send the attendance officer for them at once," said Scribble Scratch, looking worried.

But Nick was already busy. He had heard what the little mole-boy and mouse boy had said to the spider-girl on their way to school, so he was watching. After school had taken up, he saw the earth moving suspiciously, and at first Nick thought of digging up the culprits and hauling them back to school, but he knew what a quick digger Mole was, and it was altogether likely he would lose them both. So he decided upon another plan. With his Green Shoes to help him, he found Munchie Mousse's house in the cellar of Maple Tree Flats, and from there he went across Root Street to Mike Mole's front door.

In both cases he handed in this report: "Your son is playing truant." (Copyright, 1920, N.E.A.)

F. D. Roosevelt Sees Victory

fact that many progressives and radical republicans had attended the democratic meetings and were anxious to get the democratic point of view on the great questions of the day, including the League of Nations.

Mayor Peters was chairman of the man meeting on the common. He told briefly of the great work the democratic party had done the past years and eulogized the democratic standard bearers. He said it was significant that the democratic party was the first to recognize women's fitness for political office and he introduced Mrs. Alice E. Cram, democratic nominee for the office of state auditor.

Mrs. Cram Pleases Crowd

Mrs. Cram was warmly received and her wit kept the audience in good humor for about 10 minutes. She said it was with a feeling of great pride that she stood before a Boston audience the first woman nominated by any party for a state executive office. The women of the land were not indebted to either party for the vote, they—the women—had fought for it themselves for 27 years and especially for the Susan B. Anthony amendment the past 70 years.

But the democratic party had shown its progressive spirit by nominating a woman for the office of auditor in this state, in which six women to every four men worked in the state house, and no woman the head of an executive department. She pointed out that her republican opponent had been discredited by his own party, and if he were to be elected, she thought that the world would really have to have the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Judge Marx of Cincinnati answered the charges and criticisms which have recently been made against Gov. Cox, the democratic presidential nominee, by republican spellbinders and propagandists. He cited the great record of the Ohio governor in that state—the legislation he had initiated and put through including the revision of the state constitution; the breaking up of the Boss Cox-Foraker-Standard Oil ring; the establishment of the referendum, of the eight-hour law; the minimum wage for women; the abolishment of child labor; the establishment of a workmen's compensation act and a scheme of workmen's insurance and the Golden Rule policy in industrial disputes.

He also took up the charges that have recently been made about Gov. Cox's pro Germanism during the war and showed that no governor in the country had done more to help win the war than Gov. Cox, whose slogan in his last campaign was "Win the War." He was the first governor to offer a completely equipped division after war had been declared.

Roosevelt Gets Great Reception

Franklin D. Roosevelt got a great reception. He did not arrive until Judge Marx was about to finish and he was introduced at once by Mayor Peters. He said in part:

"When the democratic party came into power in 1913 conditions in the country were in a chaotic state, and the president, with the aid of a democratic senate and a democratic house of representatives, set out, without the loss of time, to remedy these unsatisfactory conditions, and in a period of nearly six years prior to the present republican congress there was more legislation of a constructive nature put on the statute books than had ever been placed there by any administration since the formation of the Union.

While there are many measures which can be dignified by terming them most important, there are many more important measures which have been passed by the democratic party one in which every American citizen now has such justifiable pride. I will not attempt to point out at this time any particular measure, but rather will give you a resume of every act passed by the democratic administration, each one of which has been of immeasurable benefit to the people of the country:

"1—The income tax.
"2—The Federal Reserve system.
"3—Measures to point out the fact that these measures were the controlling factors in making it possible for this country to finance the great World War recently successfully won.

The establishment of the department was to labor a seat in the president's cabinet, and today the laboring-man is feeling the effect of the many acts which have been placed at his disposal for his benefit, i. e., the 8-hour day; the child labor law; the workmen's compensation law, and many others.

"In fact, in the three or four years more remedial legislation covering the great questions of labor has been enacted than in any previous period of 40 or 50 years. Practically all of this beneficial legislation had the direct opposition of Senator Harding and his little group in the senate with whom Senator Harding had aligned himself in the present campaign. In other words, this group of 'political friends' has never given its sanction, much less its vote, to a remedy of the

It was the custom of our grandparents when anything was the matter with their stomach, liver or kidneys, to take a remedy composed of the right kind of roots and herbs, and by so doing lived to a ripe old age. It is also true that the Shakers, who have always depended upon the life-giving juices of leaves, roots and herbs, are long-lived people. The roots and herbs of which SEVEN BARKS is principally composed were gathered by the Shakers for many, many years, then scientifically blended, and SEVEN BARKS has become famous as one of the most reliable remedies for Indigestion, Constipation, Liver, Kidney and Stomach disorders.

Dull pains in the back, often under the shoulder blades, poor indigestion, heartburns or flutters, sour risings, yellow skin mean liver troubles, and you should take SEVEN BARKS; it will relieve you, as it will make the liver active, tone up the digestive organs and cause the bowels to act normally.

SEVEN BARKS is not a cure-all, but a very reliable remedy that will at once act on the liver, stomach and bowels, sets them to right, tones and strengthens the general health. If you want to get the greatest efficiency out of your body, enjoy and prolong your life, take SEVEN BARKS. At druggist's, 50 cents a bottle. Don't put it off; get it today.—Adv.

Says Progressives Helped
"13—The tariff commission.
"14—The federal trade commission.
"15—Our merchant marine.
"16—The thousand and one war measures which enabled us to so organize the government of the United States as to successfully finance and successfully carry out the great business of helping our Allies to defeat the central powers in the World War.
"Let us repeat, however, once more, the fact that these great achievements were not accomplished altogether by support of the democratic party. They had the support of the far-seeing, progressive republicans in the house and senate. These men, but not the reactionary group of Senator Harding, joined hands with the democratic members of congress in order to remedy the unsatisfactory conditions which I have stated existed in the country prior to 1912.

"One of the issues in this campaign is the question of our relations with foreign powers and our duty toward our recent allies. There is talk of rather mere words coming out of Marion, Ohio, of a proposition to establish 'an association of nations.'
"What is the senator from Ohio mean by 'an association of nations'? Does he intend to go back to the days of the Hague tribunal when every one knows that this organization failed utterly. With the tremendous power made by the world in the last forty years, it is not possible for this country to have a weak foreign policy. In the first place, a weak foreign policy is contrary to any policy which the country has had in the past.

"We have always been enough American and possessed with enough courage to stand by the rights of countries which are associated with us in North, South and Central America. It has been the moral force of our country which has kept them for the past 29 years their liberty and their independence, and now for the first time the republican national candidates want this country to have a foreign policy which is straddling and even more cowardly."

Mr. Roosevelt indulged only a few times in reference to his republican opponent for vice president, Governor Coolidge. He devoted his entire speech to a statement of the achievements of the administration during the past eight years, and to an outline of the concrete program which he believes Gov. Cox will carry out in the next four.

He laughingly referred to the telegram which Gov. Coolidge had sent to Senator Harding congratulating the latter on his election, as a result of the returns from Maine, and then called attention to the fact that Charles E. Hughes was congratulated too soon in 1916.

Later he was picturing the League of Nations as the embodiment of orderly government throughout the world and he apologized for borrowing the phrase "law and order."

Again he referred to the Coolidge speech against autocracy in New Hampshire last week and said that he could agree with his opponent in what he said, just as he agreed with him "in all the fine things he has said about the American flag."

He took one or two real flings at Senator Lodge, whom he grouped with members of the senate who "would have the president of the United States acting as errand boy for congress."

Explains Article Ten

During his advocacy of the League of Nations Mr. Roosevelt was interrupted once or twice by remarks from the crowd. "What about Article Ten," asked someone. Mr. Roosevelt went into a discussion of that phase of the treaty, arguing that it would not compel the sending of American troops abroad to fight the battles of European nations.

He said that the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine in 1911 was a bolder and more daring step than is contemplated in the League of Nations. When he referred to the action of President Cleveland in sending a message to England to keep out of Venezuela there was a storm of applause, at the conclusion of which there was a voice from the crowd:

"Send them another message now telling them to keep out of Ireland." There were frequent shouts of approval from women, who were out in large numbers at the first big outdoor rally of the campaign, and when Mr. Roosevelt "thanked God" that the 19th amendment had been adopted, he was given one of the biggest demonstrations of the evening.

NEW YORK PHYSICIAN TELLS WHY MORE ORGANIC PHOSPHATE MEANS MORE NERVE VITALITY

The Nerves, the Blood, the Bones of Over 40% of American Men and Women Need Organic Phosphat and Need It Badly

A Vigorous Healthy Body and Keen Active Mind Belongs to Those Who Have Plenty of It.

When will weak, played-out, thin, runny and ambitious people learn that there is nothing much the matter with them and that all they need is a few grains of the right kind of phosphate every day for a few weeks to make them as energetic, vigorous and forceful as of old?

Every month, thousands of people are learning that lack of sufficient and nerve vitality is the underlying cause of many diseases.

Your nerves control your body and without an abundant supply of nerve force life is worry, fear and disappointment.

Phosphorus is one of the vital elements of every living cell in your body and there are millions of them. Nature's way is to supply phosphorus to these cells with the food you eat in the form of phosphates.

But to millions of people modern foods do not supply enough organic phosphate, so there you are. And just for the lack of this same organic phosphate which every druggist adds under the name of Blitro-Phosphate 40 per cent, and over of the men and women of America are today crying in the wilderness for health and strength and a chance to live a cheerful, vigorous, helpful life.

"Nerve weakness, both physical and mental, is indeed a curse to the nations," says a well-known New York physician.

"Feed your nerves the food that makes nerve force; that helps to rebuild every run-down, starving cell in your body."

"If I had my way Blitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor in the land," says Frederick M. Kelle, M.D., Editor-in-Chief of Physicians "Who's Who," a nationally known author of medical text-books and a brilliant physician.

Later on, Dr. Kelle says: "It is not difficult to detect women who have plenty of nerve vitality; nerves that are rich in organic phosphate (this is equally true of men); the women are usually cheerful, magnetic and pleasing; they have youth and vigor at 50 and even 60 years and are bubbling over with vitality. You don't find them pale, weak, nervous or haggard looking at 40 or complaining of this or that ailment."

"Every day thousands of men and women who are losing their youth before their time are so limited in their physical powers are so limited in their total discouragement is near, are learning that Blitro-Phosphate, a simple organic phosphate that A. W. Dows and every druggist dispenses is all they need to re-establish nerve vitality, strength, and keener mind."

RECRUITING ITALIAN SOVIET ARMY

ROME, Sept. 15.—Preparations for recruiting an Italian Soviet army are being made in Milan, Turin, Rome, Naples and other large cities throughout the country, according to the newspaper Epoca, which prints a statement to this effect by a superior officer of the Italian army. It is said that one of the leading chiefs of the Soviet organization is Enrico Malatesta, the anarchist chief.

Signor Vella, a member of the chamber of deputies from Sicily and ranked among the extreme revolutionists in the chamber, denies in an interview with the Tribune any connection with this alleged Bolshevik army. Vella enlisted during the war and refused promotion, and later was court-martialed for disseminating anti-war propaganda. He was convicted and received an additional sentence for contempt of court.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Local Undertakers Attend Annual National Convention of Undertakers and Funeral Directors at Springfield

Thomas J. O'Donnell of J. P. O'Donnell and Sons, and John McDonough of M. H. McDonough Sons, attended the annual national convention of undertakers and funeral directors, which was held yesterday at Springfield. The meeting was held in the auditorium and was attended by about 500 delegates representing every state in the union.

The report of the national president relating the doings of the association since the last convention, which was held last year at Atlantic City, was read and considerable business concerning the association was transacted, including the election of officers.

On Tuesday, the Massachusetts Undertakers' association held its 25th annual convention in the same hall and among the business transacted was the adoption of a purple cross emblem to be used on hearse and funeral procession in order to identify the procession and to permit the police to pass a traffic regulation post and holding others back. The association also identified the funeral automobiles and the drivers of other vehicles will not attempt to break through a funeral procession.

The adoption of the purple cross emblem by the state association is a compliment to the city, which originated the idea about four years ago, since which time this local firm has always used a purple flag on its first and last automobile in its funeral processions.
